AT PORT CHALMETE.

British Military Camp to be Investigated.

Hundreds of Horses and Mules Awaiting Shipment.

CHICAGO, April 8.—Colonel E. H. Crowder, connected with the Adjutant General's department, according to the Tribune's New Orleans correspondent, is the officer sent to Port Chalmete, La., to inquire into conditions at the military camp reported to be under the management of the British government at that point. Colonel Crowder, the Tribune says, is at New Orleans, awaiting instructions from the War Department. Colonel Crowder has already briefly inquired into conditions at Chalmete. He found that Port Chalmete railroad people, says the correspondent, claim to have full control of the land occupied by the pens and stables.

Colonel Crowder investigated the court records pertaining to the suit brought by General Pearson in a recent effort to prevent the sailing of two transports. The courts set aside the objections. It was found that nearly all the documents in the cases were forwarded to Washington as a part of Governor Heard's report to the Secretary of State. Today, it is held, will decide whether there will be a thorough and immediate inquiry.

It is estimated that now 1,000 horses and 400 mules are penned up at Port Chalmete. At the wharves three transports are waiting to clear for Cape Town the moment the animal cargoes are on board. A "committee" of British army officers and veterinarians are busy passing on the animals that come in daily from all points of the western grazing districts.

IN A DANGEROUS CONDITION.

Major O. L. Pruden Removed to Garfield Hospital for Treatment.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—Major O. L. Pruden, assistant secretary to the President, today was removed to Garfield Hospital for treatment for organic heart trouble. He is in a dangerous condition, and it is believed that he cannot survive very long. He has been in poor health for some time, but has steadily ignored the fact, and has remained away from his duty only during the last three or four days. This has greatly aggravated the original trouble.

MEANS A REDUCTION.

Equalization of Wages Hits Moosup Weavers.

No Guarantee Against the Two-Loom System.

MOOSUP, Conn., April 8.—The strikers of the Milner mills of the American Woolen Company, here, were greatly disturbed this morning upon learning of the action taken by the agents of the company in Boston last night, in equalizing the prices paid for weaving. It is estimated that the schedule adopted means a reduction to the weavers here of from seven to 10 per cent, and in a few cases it may be a little more than 10 per cent.

As the strike here was entirely in sympathy with the Olneyville, R. I., weavers, the only demand upon the local agent being that he should give a promise that the two-loom system would not be introduced in these mills, the present situation is looked upon by the strikers with considerable uneasiness. The pay of weavers here is said by the mill management to have been larger than that in most other mills of the company, and hence the equalization order means a reduction. In regard to the two-loom system, Agent Hinchcliffe has informed the weavers that, while he sees no prospect that the system will be applied to the grade of work done in these mills, he has no authority to make a promise.

The mills were closed today on account of a breakdown of machinery, but will be started up again tomorrow. So far as is known here, no move is being made to secure men to take the strikers' places. The weavers have held no meeting since the news of last night's action of the agents reached them.

AGAINST THE DEFENDANT.

Judge Green Announces His Decision in the Doyle-Burns Mining Case.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa, April 8.—Judge Green has announced to Clerk Heed of the district court that his decision in the famous Doyle-Burns mining suit will be against the defendant, Burns, that he will overrule the motion for a new trial, and that he has instructed attorneys to prepare papers for filing judgment of $446,000. At the same time he will refuse petition for additional judgment of $438,000, prayed for by Doyle.

Stock Farm Destroyed by Fire.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, April 8.—Fire at an early hour today destroyed the training and stock farm of the Charles F. Bates Horse Company and the residence of Manager Norman N. Rogers, near Hubbard. The loss is estimated at $25,000.

ON SOUTHERN SOIL.

President and Party Honored Guests of Charleston.

Visit the Training Station and Sail About the Harbor.

CHARLESTON, S. C., April 8.—The President's train reached Charleston at 9:30 a. m., on time. The party did not come into the city but left the train five miles out, where trolley cars were waiting to convey them to the naval station, to take the revenue cutter for a tour of the harbor. The President's immediate party went directly to the naval station, where they were joined in a few moments by members of the reception committee and guests from the city.

A guard of 30 militiamen was stationed about the approaches to the train and stood at present arms as the President landed. At the naval station 50 men of the militia were posted, maintaining picket lines about the reservation, and none were allowed within the lines except such as had special passes. The President and his party were shown about the station and then were conducted to the pier, where revenue cutter Algonquin was in waiting.

As the President set foot on the deck the flag of the commander-in-chief of the army and navy was raised and the jackies were paraded, while a salute of 21 guns was fired. In the stream cutters Forward and Hamilton were lying, and further down toward the city were cruiser Cincinnati and training ships Topeka and Lancaster. After the committee and guests had gone on board, the Algonquin started on a tour of the harbor. Passing down Cooper river, a fine view of the city and the bay was presented. The weather was perfect; there was not a cloud in the sky and a gentle breeze blew from the ocean with just a bracing touch in it, not chill enough to require overcoats.

Passing into the bay the Algonquin came abreast of cruiser Cincinnati, whose decks were manned with all her crew, as well as the Topeka and Lancaster. As the President's vessel passed each ship a salute of 21 guns was fired. Off the fortifications of Sullivan's Island the Algonquin was greeted with the same welcome, and she passed out to the ocean with gay streamers amid a chorus of guns. Just a little run to sea and the Algonquin turned about and re-entered the harbor, passing around historic Fort Sumter. While the Algonquin steamed up the bay luncheon was served in the cabin.

A short run was made up the Ashley river, giving a view of the city's western water front, and then the ship was headed back for the landing, where a troop of the Charleston Light Dragoons was in waiting to escort the President to his headquarters at the St. John Hotel. All the arrangements were excellent and there was not a break in the program. The President seemed in high spirits and entered with keen zest into all the features of the occasion.

A banquet will be given by the city in honor of the President at the Charleston Hotel this evening. While this is in progress Mrs. Roosevelt will receive at the St. John. Five hundred invitations have been issued to this function, and no men will be present. Tomorrow at 10 o'clock there will be a parade to the exposition grounds, where the formal ceremonies will be held and the President will present a sword to Major Micah Jenkins. Tomorrow afternoon the President's party will go to Summerville and will spend Thursday there, inspecting the tea farms.

A great crowd of people is in the city and much enthusiasm was shown at the presence of the President. Governor McSweeny is here and Governor Aycock of North Carolina is expected this evening.

FROM LEASING ITS PROPERTY.

Injunctions Will Not be Continued Against the Metropolitan Company.

NEW YORK, April 8.—Justice Gildersleeve, in the supreme court, today handed down a decision declining to continue temporary injunctions restraining the Metropolitan Street Railway Company from making a lease of its property to the Inter-Urban Street Railway Company. The injunctions were obtained by H. Content & Co. and Isidor Wormser & Co. Justice Gildersleeve said that the charges of fraud raised and the question as to whether the shareholders will get the value of their stock from the Inter-Urban company should be decided by trial.

SUPPOSED TO BE FIREPROOF.

Six-Story Cement Building at Bayonne Gutted.

NEW YORK, April 8.—A six-story cement building at Bayonne, N. J., supposed to be fireproof, was gutted by fire last night. It was owned by the Pacific Coast Borax Company and was located near the Standard Oil Company's plant. The loss is estimated at $150,000. The origin of the fire is unknown.

Five workmen, who were on the fourth floor, did not know the building was on fire until they saw the flames shoot up the shaft. Their escape in that way being cut off, they rushed to a window and shouted for help. When the firemen arrived a ladder was put up, but it reached only to the second story. A rope was procured and a fireman, standing at the top of the ladder, threw one end to the men at the window. It was caught and made fast and the five men lowered themselves.

NO SUBMARINE BOATS.

House Naval Committee Votes Adversely.

Claim That Price Paid is Three Times the Cost.

[Special despatch to the News.]

WASHINGTON, April 8.—The House committee on naval affairs, after a long discussion today, decided to make no provision in the naval appropriation bill for the purchase of submarine boats. The statement was made that a careful investigation had developed the fact that these boats can be built for $60,000, whereas those which have been purchased have cost $175,000. Only two members of the committee voted to make an appropriation for submarine boats.

Representative Bull of Rhode Island was one of the three voting in favor of purchasing additional submarine boats.

The committee also agreed to a favorable report on the bill to make the commandant of the marine corps a major general. General Heywood, the present commandant, has the rank of a brigadier general.

WITH A LARGE ATTENDANCE.

House Opens Debate on Cuban Reciprocity.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—The debate upon the Cuban reciprocity bill opened in the House today. There was much activity among the leaders on both sides before the House convened, in anticipation of the coming battle, and when the Speaker called the House to order at noon the attendance on the floor was unusually large. After the approval of the journal some routine business was transacted.

Mr. Lacey of Iowa asked unanimous consent for the consideration of a bill to protect game and fish in Alaska. He explained that when the Alaska code was enacted a year ago it did not include game laws, and the result had been an enormous slaughter of game during the last season. There was no objection and the bill was passed.

Mr. Payne, chairman of the ways and means committee and leader of the majority, moved that the House go into committee of the whole for the consideration of the Cuban reciprocity bill.

The motion to go into committee of the whole was carried, 177 to 89.

YEARNED FOR LIBERTY.

Filipinos Fertile Field for Republican Institutions.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—General MacArthur today continued his testimony concerning conditions in the Philippines. His discussion at the beginning of the session was devoted to a review of the conditions which led up to the present state of mind of the Philippine people. He said that long before the advent of the Americans the germs of democracy had been planted, and that these had originated in the agitations in Spain of a century ago, which had been reflected in the Spanish colonies.

He also described the conditions in the archipelago at the time of the American occupation, saying that at the time the Filipinos were in a vindictive and resentful mood toward Spain, with a general yearning for liberty. Taking these psychological conditions into account, and also giving due heed to the character of the people, he had felt when he assumed command of the islands that there was to be found the most fertile field for the planting of the best type of Republican institutions.

General MacArthur then took up and discussed economic conditions in the archipelago, saying they are the finest group of islands in the world, occupying a strategic position absolutely unexcelled.

COMPANY SATISFIED.

Not Disturbed by the Sympathetic Strikes.

Woolen Weavers the Only Sufferers by the Shutdown.

BOSTON, April 8.—In a discussion of the strike at the mills of the company, Mr. William M. Wood, treasurer of the American Woolen Company, today said that the management was very well satisfied with the strike situation as it exists at the present time and the progress that the mills have made. All the machinery in the Olneyville mills is running, he said, except the looms, and 33 1-3 per cent of the looms is in motion. Every time the gates opened there was a gain in the number of weavers. Continuing, Mr. Wood said:

"While we have done no talking, these have been the facts that have existed for some time. We feel very much encouraged over the outlook. We believe that the weavers in Providence begin to see how absurd it was for them to go out on so flimsy an issue. For eight years they have worked contentedly on this very same two-loom work, which now suddenly appears to be so objectionable, and they would have been working today but for the strategy of a few scheming men, who are not workers, and the owner of the word 'scab.'

"The sympathetic strikes in outside mills do not disturb us in the least. We are very sorry for the people in those mills who are wrongly led into the position that they have taken, and which can cause them only great privation and loss of wages.

"It may be interesting to know that the total yardage of cloth of the mills up to the present time exceeds the best weekly average of any week in the last six months, which was the greatest six months' production that the company ever had.

"We expect to gain in the weekly production every week, notwithstanding the few mills that are out. The plants that are shut down are as a rule small in capacity in the number of their looms, and form only a small part of the capacity of the 6,000 looms of the company. The cloth of some of the mills that are out is duplicated in other mills, so that the company does not suffer by the mills being shut down. The only people suffering are the weavers themselves. It rests entirely with them when they come to return, but the company can not assure them work later in the fall if they disturb their prospects for fall orders by stopping work today. That, of course, is a chance that they must take.

"The company does not intend to decrease the wages anywhere and has only equalized in the worsted mills, where a very great discrepancy existed since the formation of the company. I wish it distinctly understood that the wages in the various mills not mentioned in the circular will not be cut down, and there is no intention of doing so.

"When we made the general increase in wages we were fearful that it might not be possible to maintain it. We are very glad that we have been able to do so and give our help the very high wages they are enjoying. Never since the introduction of woolen goods into this country have such wages been paid in the industry. The only drawback to the situation is the fact that numerous country mills outside of the American Woolen Company have not seen fit to follow our example and are paying less wages today than the American company.

"To show the absurdity of the two-loom issue, it is a positive fact that weavers of the American Woolen Company who are supposed to be out on a strike have gone to other mills in the state and are today employed on two-loom work, and apparently contented, for less wages than they were getting at the American Woolen Company.

NINE HOURS' WORK, TEN HOURS' PAY.

Proposition Submitted to Striking Quarrymen at Barre, Vt.

BARRE, Vt., April 8.—At an unexpected conference between the strike committee of the Amalgamated Quarrymen's Union and the Quarrymen's Association, a proposition was submitted to workers that they continue to work nine hours a day for ten hours' pay. A demand of the union for an eight-hour day with nine hours' pay will be decided later. The union committee agreed to recommend at the meeting tonight that the strike be deferred until later.

CHINESE BARRED.

General Exclusion Bill Passed by the House.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—The House passed a general Chinese exclusion bill today, without a roll-call and with comparatively little opposition, but the Senate, which will act upon another bill on the same subject this week, may only reenact the present law until the termination of the present treaty.

Senator Platt of Connecticut has proposed a substitute to the Chinese exclusion bill and all the amendments pending in the Senate, which would simply extend the present law for two years, on the ground that in the meanwhile a new treaty may be negotiated covering the subject, so that this would be the more courteous and diplomatic way of treating the government of China.

This view seems to be gaining in support in the Senate, and may prevail when the vote comes to be taken. Whatever done in the Senate will be different from what has been done in the House, so that the matter will have to be finally settled in conference committee. If the Senate adopts the Platt substitute extending the life of the present law so that a new treaty can be negotiated before provision is made for the later future, it will probably be adopted by the conference committee and ultimately by the House.

CASTRO WITHOUT MONEY.

His Government Unable to Pay Its Soldiers.

WILLEMSTEAD, Island of Curacao, April 7.—The seaport of Tucacas, in the state of Lara, was taken April 3, by revolutionary forces. Barquisimeto, the capital of Lara, has been in possession of the revolutionists since April 4. The revolution in the eastern part of Venezuela has made much progress during the past week.

General Escalante and two of President Castro's brothers suffered severe defeat at the hands of the insurgents April 3, at San Agostin. Of the 550 government soldiers only 350 retreated; the remainder being killed or wounded or deserting. The government was defeated in another engagement, April 4, near El Pilar.

The situation of the Venezuelan government is becoming critical. It is almost without financial resources, and, consequently, cannot pay its soldiers. The people are making efforts to escape forcible enlistment in the army. The customs receipts of the republic are decreasing daily.

AFTER RATIFICATION.

Danish Government Will Then Favor a Plebiscite.

COPENHAGEN, April 7.—The Landsthing held two more secret meetings today to discuss the Danish West India islands treaty, but no vote was reached. The opposition submitted a new motion, namely, that a plebiscite be taken before, and not after, the ratification of the treaty. This motion will not be accepted, but it caused the postponement to vote to the next meeting of the House, Wednesday, which will undoubtedly be the last one.

A reliable forecast indicates that the Landsthing will vote for the ratification of the treaty and a plebiscite subsequent to this action.

Herr Vor Fessen, who was sent to the Danish West Indies in 1901 by the National Tidende to stir up opposition to the proposed sale to the United States, has returned with glowing reports of the success of his mission. Today he publishes an article in the National Tidende, declaring that influences have been at work in the Islands which would render a plebiscite at this time worthless to Denmark, as the vote of the inhabitants of the Islands would result in favor of the sale. He therefore asks the Landsthing to reject the treaty outright. This is believed to show the desperate straits of the opposition.

USED WOMEN AS SCREENS.

Delarey Says They Were Placed Around British Camps.

AMSTERDAM, April 7.—A report which was sent last January by General Delarey to Mr. Kruger, and which is countersigned by Ignatius Ferreira, the acting state attorney, has been published by the Boer bureau here. It contains numerous stories of alleged British atrocities, and is supported by affidavits.

Besides the general accusations of placing women as screens around the British camps, as a result of which practice many women are said to have been killed, General Delarey gives specific instances, with names and dates of the killing of wounded prisoners and women.

He complains that, owing to Lord Methuen's persecution, his own wife, with six children, has been wandering on the veldt the past year. General Delarey complains also that his mother, aged 83 years, was driven into Klerksdorp, after her cattle had been stolen and her house burned.

Van Der Merwe, late mining commissioner of the Rand, now nothing under Delarey, appends a further list of atrocities committed on women and children, to the report of General Delarey.

A despatch from London says: The publication of reports of British atrocities from Transvaal sources in Amsterdam and Brussels, the latter accusing the British of ill-treating Boer clergymen and burning Boer churches, and claiming that there are 10,000 Boer invaders in Cape Colony, are regarded in London as intended to influence the peace negotiations. The Daily Mail points out that these reports are likely to receive additional credence on the continent as a result of following on the heels of revelations of the crimes of the Australian officers.

RODE ON A FOOTPATH.

Prince and Princess Henry Held Up and May be Fined.

BERLIN, April 7.—While out bicycling near Darmstadt last Friday Prince and Princess Henry and the Grand Duke of Hesse left the muddy wagon way for a footpath where the bicycling was easier. Riding on this footway is forbidden by the police regulations.

The party had proceeded only a short way, when a policeman jumped out from a hedge and shouted: "Halt, dismount." The royal party obeyed, and the Grand Duke was sharply questioned by the policeman, who held a bulky note book in his hand. The duke, who is the reigning sovereign of the duchy, replied that he was the Grand Duke of Hesse, and named his companions as Prince and Princess Henry of Prussia.

The policeman calmly requested details of the identification, and when all three members of the party had answered him satisfactorily, he permitted them to proceed, saying that, according to the regulations, he would report the matter at headquarters.

It is likely that the usual fine of seven marks will be collected from the royal bicyclers.

WALLER CONTRADICTED.

General Smith Says He Never Told Him to Kill Prisoners.

MANILA, April 7.—In the trial today by court-martial of Major Waller of the marine corps, General Smith denied that he ever gave Major Waller power of life and death exceeding general order 100. He said his order to Major Waller about not being burdened with prisoners meant to disarm and release those prisoners who were not charged with serious offences.

The capture of the insurgent General, Lukban, is regarded by General Smith as one of the most important ever made in the Philippines. General Smith strongly recommends that Lieutenant Strother be given a commission as first lieutenant in the regulars, and that Sergeant Lora be made a second lieutenant of the native scouts. These recommendations have been indorsed by General Wade and approved by General Chaffee.

IN HONOR OF THE FOUNDER OF THE GRAND ARMY.

Stephenson, founder of the Grand Army of the Republic. The statue and pedestal are to cost $15,000 and is to be presented to the government by the grand army. Benjamin F. Stephenson was born in Illinois October 20, 1822, and served as surgeon in the Fourteenth Illinois infantry. He organized the Grand Army of the Republic April 6, 1866, at Springfield, Ill. He died at Bordentown, Ill., August 29, 1871.

YACHTING NOTES.

There was launched from the yards of the Gas Engine and Power Company and Seabury & Co., Morris Heights, today, steam yacht Margaret, owned by Mr. John B. Rutherford. Mrs. Charles L. Seabury, wife of the naval architect, who designed the yacht, christened her. The Margaret is intended for service on Lake Champlain, the St. Lawrence river and the great lakes. She is 120 feet over all, has twin screws, triple expansion engines, and will have a speed of 16 miles an hour. The bow and stern are detachable and when taken off the yacht will be 98 feet long, which length will enable her to pass through the canals to destination. The canal locks being 100 feet long.

Thursday the new steel schooner Chanticleer for Mr. George W. Weld, will be put overboard at the same yard. This yacht is 185 feet over all, and will be used for coastwise cruising.

Mr. John D. Archbold's twin-screw steam yacht Vixen, built by the same company, will be launched, a week or so after the Chanticleer is placed in the water. The Vixen is of the torpedo boat model and her contract calls for a speed of 22 miles an hour. Mr. Archbold will use the boat in making daily trips between Tarrytown and New York.

Mr. Frank J. Gould's steam yacht Helenita, launched some time ago, will be completed in early May, when the boat will be placed in commission and the owner start upon an extended cruise.

Mr. Ogden Mills has chartered the fast and handsome steam yacht Fedora, owned by Mr. E. W. Bliss, and while he may use her in daily trips between his summer home at Hyde Park and this city, will make cruises to the eastward during the season. The Fedora is of steel, and was built in 1898, from designs by Mr. Henry J. Gielow, by the John N. Robins Company, South Brooklyn. She is 170 feet over all, 142 feet 4 inches on the water line, 20 feet beam, 11 feet depth and 6 feet draught. Her engines are of the triple-expansion type.

Whatever may be remembered of formation of the "Diamond Ring," of the conquest of Labouchere and of the "Cape to Cairo" promoter, the man who stroked the locks of Oxford treely and forever to a humbled young American will not be forgotten or regarded with ingratitude.—[New York Tribune.

DR. KERSHNER'S VINDICATION.

Announcement That the President Has Restored Him to Rank Received With Favor.

[New York Tribune.]

The recent announcement in the Congressional Record that the President has signed the bill restoring Dr. Edward Kershner to his rank in the navy—that of medical inspector—will gratify a host of friends of the doctor, not only in the navy, where 35 years of his professional life have been spent, but in the medical fraternity and in social life. Dr. Kershner was dismissed from the service in 1896, after a court-martial in which he was found guilty of violation of regulations and scandalous conduct. He wrote to his family and friends concerning charges of a serious nature—afterward proven to be unfounded—made against him by a line officer in a controversy about the methods of spreading contagious or infectious disease. The second charge was in reference to his answers at the court of inquiry.

The proceedings of this court, which preceded the court-martial, were taken down in long hand, a fact which caused considerable discrepancy of statement among one or more of the witnesses against Dr. Kershner at the court-martial.

The Senate twice recommended the restoration of Dr. Kershner, and finally the House of Representatives also unanimously made the same recommendation. About March 20, a few days after the passage of the bill, the President signed it. In accordance with the provisions of this act, the President has appointed Dr. Kershner to be a medical inspector in the navy on the retired list. The Senate confirmed this appointment on April 2. The committee on naval affairs in Congress reported:

"We are of the opinion that if, under a technical construction of the article, Dr. Kershner was guilty of a violation of it in writing to his friends, such a construction should never be enforced in such a case. A strict application of the article so construed would probably subject any officer in the navy to a court-martial, including the members of the court that rendered the judgment in this case."

The charge of "scandalous conduct" was completely disproved. The naval committee in part said:

"After having considered the evidence under this charge, that Dr. Kershner knowingly and wilfully swore falsely to a material fact before the court of inquiry held to ascertain in what manner and through whom the charges preferred against him became public, we are of the opinion that the charge was not sustained, and are led to wonder how such a judgment could have been reached by the court, considering the evidence, the high character of the accused and the grave nature of the charge, unless there was an element of personal hostility in the case. We are of the opinion that the charges against him were not sustained, and that he should not have been dismissed from the service."

Dr. Kershner has had six years to wait for such a vindication. He is a fellow of the Academy of Medicine, professor emeritus in the Post-Graduate Medical School and a member of the Union League Club, Loyal Legion, Grand Army of the Republic, Masonic fraternity and Society of the Nineteenth Army Corps.

THE RELATIONS OF CAPITAL TO LABOR.

[Percy Longmuir, in the Engineering Magazine.]

At present in far too many cases the gulf between capital and labor is regarded by the units comprising the latter half of the partnership as unbridgable—a sort of yawning chasm across which no connecting link can be thrown. This attitude may or may not be due to the capitalists themselves; but the fact remains that the majority of units comprising labor regard the units representing capital as natural enemies. In many cases when the capitalist does make an advance it is regarded by the recipients with suspicion if not absolute distrust. It is the same with new methods of organization or management which do not appeal directly to the man's understanding, as for instance the "premium system;" they are regarded with suspicion or as a means of taking undue advantage. It has been shown that this attitude of opposition to capital or progress is not deliberately assumed, but is rather the result of crippling environment.

With a wider outlook on the workers' part, this hostile attitude will gradually recede and ever increasing friendly relations be established. Capital and labor must be in amicable agreement and upon the strength and cordiality of this partnership will our success in competitive industry depend. That there should be foreign competition is only consistent with the development of other countries, but if the two halves of our industrial partnership are in unison and hearty co-operation, competition then becomes but an incentive to fresh effort. The co-operation is not only possible, but feasible, once the workers see the necessity for it; and that in turn only competitive nations, achieved through the aid of the workers' present organizations, would be of an extremely beneficial character to the industry of today and invaluable to industry of the future.

A WISE man once said he was too busy to be in a hurry. So a family may be too poor to drink anything but high-grade Tea. Here is the point! Ordinary tea is merely a pleasant drink, but high-grade tea is a stimulating food which relieves fatigue. Scientists assert this. Great Britain proved it with her army in Egypt. You will be healthier and live longer if you drink one of Chase & Sanborn's high-grade teas instead of ordinary tea.

YOU MUST COME QUICK

If you wish to get the pick of our fine and complete new spring stock of carriages which we have placed upon our floors within the past few weeks. Goods have been coming in from the factories in unbroken lots, and we believe we have the cream of this year's vehicle product now ready for your inspection. But as the weather improves they will rapidly disappear from our floors as those who want new vehicles this year cannot find their equal anywhere for the same money.

In buying by the carload we have secured the lowest prices the manufacturer can possibly make—and could have made had we delayed placing our order till the recent raise in the price of raw materials had taken place. We saved money in buying early, and so will you—and get the pick of the most complete stock of vehicles you ever saw, in addition.

We could much delight you, by buying by the carload, but by ordering early we were assured that the manufacturer would have ample time to finish up the goods before his rush season commenced, after which a great many things are slighted even in the most careful factory, in order to meet the clamor of the dealers who were late in placing orders.

BATTLESHIP RHODE ISLAND.

One of the Most Powerful Ships of the New Navy--Work Begun at Fore River.

Thirty-five hundred tons of steel designed for the construction of the hull of the new United States battleship Rhode Island are now being made ready for the riveters at the Fore River shipyard at Quincy, Mass., and in a few weeks the great ship will begin to rise out of the present seeming chaos of material, and take on something of the likeness of an up-to-date man-of-war.

The building of the great fighting ship, which will represent the state of Rhode Island in the new navy, is significant not only because the ship itself is to be one of the most powerful in the world, but also because the Fore River yard will use in constructing it shipbuilding machinery unlike any hitherto employed in an American shipyard. The first steps in the construction of the Rhode Island are typical of modern naval architecture. Sixteen months were consumed by the United States bureau of construction and repair in preparation of the circular inviting bids for the construction of the new type of 15,000-ton battleships to which the Rhode Island belongs. When the contract was awarded to the Fore River Ship and Engine Company, February 15, 1901, every conceivable question in regard to the new battleship had been mathematically calculated and compared with previously existing standards. Moreover, a model of the new ship had been built and driven through the water in the government testing basin at Washington at a speed equal to 19 knots an hour, in order to determine practically the wave and friction resistance, the required horse-power and other important details.

Nevertheless the work to be done in the draughting room was still far from finished, and for six months the naval architects and a score of draughtsmen were kept employed at Fore River in making working plans for each frame and plate and casting which the specifications of the government required. In merchant shipbuilding channels, angles, sections and plates of standard dimensions can be secured at the steel mills at once, but everything that goes into the construction of a battleship is made to order, and when the detail plans for plates and frames were complete, they had to be sent to one of the great steel mills, where each piece of steel was rolled from the ingot for its special place in the hull of the Rhode Island. Meanwhile, the wooden patterns were begun in the Fore River shops for the great 36-ton stem casting, for the stern cast, the cutwater, and other parts of the ship which could not be fashioned by rolls or steam hammers.

The plate, which has previously been placed in a pickling bath to remove rust and dirt, is then trimmed down to the required size by means of powerful shears, operated by an electric motor. Hanging from a crane the plate is next placed under an electric punching machine, where each rivet hole is punched out. Several men are required to steady the plate, so that each hole shall be punched exactly within each circle of white paint; but in the next process, the countersinking of the holes so that the heads of the rivets will not protrude, only one man is employed. The plate after being punched is lowered to the floor of the shop, so that the countersinking machine, which includes a small electric motor mounted on trucks and fed by flexible wires, is trundled over it as easy as if it were a wheelbarrow. The machine is moved from hole to hole, reaming out each one, while the operator makes frequent application of cold water to prevent the swiftly revolving tool from becoming overheated and useless.

Although the individual pieces of steel which are to be used in the ship can be made from blue prints drawn to scale, it is necessary in order to make these pieces exactly fit their places, to draw plans which shall be the full size of the hull. In the mould loft is a great service board, so large that the lines of the ship, from stem to stern and from keel to deck, were drawn life size, though in a confusion of curves which would completely puzzle an untrained eye. When the lines have been "laid down"—as this enlargement of the plans is technically described—it is possible to make wooden templates outlining each plate and frame so perfectly that each joint can be made water-tight, and thousands of rivet holes will come exactly where they are wanted. For example, a ribbon of thin pine is cut and fastened together so that it outlines a plate four feet broad by eight feet long. Near the edge of the template holes are bored to show where each rivet must go in the corresponding plate. This pattern is then laid on a sheet of steel upon which the outline and the rivet holes are marked with white paint.

Finally the plate is bent into the right shape by great rolls or given an additional twist by means of the hammers of the workmen. The channels and angles which are to form the framework and braces of the ship are treated in much the same way, except that they are bent, after being heated, on a great iron bending table. This table is made up of a number of heavy plates thickly punctured with holes, by means of which the hot frames are held at the required curves by iron "dogs" or braces.

Piled up in the ship toolhouse at Fore River are hundreds of plates and frames which are ready to be hoisted into their respective places in the great battleship. The special method used at Fore River for placing them where they belong marks a novel departure in shipbuilding equipment. When steel vessels were first built the material was swung into place by steam derricks such as are used for unloading vessels or constructing city buildings. This manifestly clumsy and uneconomical method of handling heavy steel has now been superseded by various more modern methods. Some yards, for example, have supplied themselves with steel towers which travel on railways beside the ship and stretch out an arm-like crane over the hull. This device, though serving its purpose, is extremely heavy and consequently an unwarranted amount of power is expended in moving the crane, even with a light load, from one end of a ship to the other.

At Fore River, therefore, a steel structure has been built over the launch large enough to cover four great ships and sustain eight traveling electric cranes of the type which has been found most economical and convenient in shops and foundries. This structure, which is the first of the kind to be built in America, will, when completed, be 800 feet long and 225 feet from one side to the other, covering a ground area of six acres. That is, it will be about the size of the train shed of the big Boston terminal station. At the lower end the lower chord upon which the cranes rest is 100 feet above the ground, while the top of the supporting truss is 145 feet high.

The Rhode Island will soon be specially served by two of these electric cranes, both of which are already in place. Two more will work for the next two years for her sister ship, the New Jersey. All of them have a lifting capacity of five tons or when coupled together can carry a weight of 10 tons. The whole length of the ship faster than a man can walk—a fact which, of course, means an immense gain in speed of work and in human energy.

The supporting structure—the ship house itself, that is—rests upon 18 skeleton steel towers and has been built by means of an enormous wooden crib or false structure 80 feet high and surmounted by derricks. This great crib, which, it is estimated, weighs over 200 tons, has rested on scores of hardwood rollers and has been moved along by steam winches as the work has progressed.

Under the mammoth ship house the hulls of the Rhode Island and the New Jersey will be assembled with the greatest accuracy. The material will be brought from the shops on a gravity railway. The electric cranes will pick up the frames and plates and hold them in position until they are made secure with bolts. Then the riveters with pneumatic hammers, which pound away at the steel-like titanic woodpeckers, will head the red-hot rivets, hundreds and thousands of them, until the steel ribs, beams and plates have lost their identity in the harmony of their union.

In the days of oak, when the hull of a frigate was fastened with wooden "trunnels" instead of steel rivets, the ship rose in regular order from keel to rail, but in the days of steel no such regularity is required. In the case of the Rhode Island the frames or ribs of the midship section will probably be raised first, the work progressing toward the bow. The inner planting or skin will precede the outer and the whole midship section may be complete before the stern is covered in. Through it all the noise of the pneumatic hammers will keep up a constant din which will tell of the close kinship that exists nowadays between the work of the boiler shop and of the modern shipyard.

OUR VANISHING IDEALS.

[Clara E. Laughlin, in Scribner's.]

We begin by believing that the way of life is by acquisition, by what the world reckons progress. We live to learn that it is by abandonment, by the ability to do without rather than by the capability to gain, by the growing away from ideals rather than by fulfillment of them, and this not necessarily by a ruthless decree, but most often by a specially benignant one.

I wish biography, even autobiography, were more explicit on this point. And so wishing, so thinking, I began to put down the poor, bare, utterly commonplace little outlines I know "best of all," as Mrs. Burnett says; and looking backward as best I could, my recollection flew, straight as a magnetic needle to the north, to the time when I used, as a little girl, to look forward with a chill agony of foreboding to the inevitable time when I should be "too big" to play with dolls.

I felt sure that when such a time came to me I should want to die; life would hold no further incentives to go on living. I really suffered in this anticipation, imagining that some day, in the full flush of my passionate love for my doll, some one would come to me and make me put my treasures away from me forever, and my heart would surely break in one great ache of agony. But I can't even remember how or when I stopped playing with dolls. My interest in them, my passion for them, their power to absorb and satisfy me, faded so gradually, so gently, into other interests, other passions, that there was no wrench in the transition; it was evolution, and as quiet as the growth of grass, the unfolding of buds, as the creeping by of time.

....The first public address by Miss Ellen M. Stone, the released missionary, in this country, will be delivered in the First Congregational Church at Chelsea, her home. Preparations are now being made for a reception to her.

....The son of Prince Ching, imperial envoy to the coronation of King Edward, left Pekin today for London, accompanied by his suite. He will return by way of the United States and will visit the principal cities of this country.

....There is talk of running Rev. Charles M. Sheldon for mayor of Topeka, Kan. Mr. Sheldon is the author of the book called "In His Steps," and about two years ago edited the Topeka Capital for a week to show how he believed Christ would run a newspaper.

....E. Harlow Russell, principal of one of the Massachusetts State Normal School, has sent a letter to Senator Hoar declining the presidency of the new collegiate department of Clark University. It is understood that Senator Hoar will urge Professor Russell to reconsider his decision.

....Rear Admiral Schley has been invited to deliver the Memorial day address in Bangor, and has announced his intention of accepting unless something unforeseen arises. It is expected he will be accompanied by General Miles and a delegation of Knights Templar, of which order Admiral Schley is a member.

...."During the next few weeks," says the London Chronicle, "Mr. Choate, the American ambassador, will do most of his work at his residence in Carlton House Terrace. The embassy in Victoria street will be for some time in the hands of the decorator, and among the improvements to be effected, in view of the coronation, will be an installation of the electric light. Patriotic Americans generally grumble, when they come here, about the way in which their country's representatives are housed. They think, naturally enough, that America in this, as in other respects, should compare favorably with France, Germany or Russia. As it is, the American ambassador has himself to rent a mansion to live in, which means no small expense."

Add a quarter of a small onion and three mushrooms sliced fine; season with salt and pepper. After cooking five minutes add half of this sauce to the meat. Heat thoroughly; then add two beaten eggs. Turn into a buttered timbale and bake 25 minutes. To the remainder of the sauce add half a can of mushrooms cut into small pieces, one teaspoonful of lemon juice and a little minced parsley. The Old Way of Milking.

The family supply of milk was often subject to accident. A misfortune of this sort meant that the family would go milkless at their next meal. Today it is different.

With the New Way of Obtaining Milk by using

Campbell's Milk Food

there is no need of even a temporary milk famine. It is milk itself in a dry, sterilized, highly concentrated, powdered condition. WHEN THE WHEEL TURNS ROUND.

[Linda Wilson Smith.]

There's a time of wondrous meaning
In the calendar of life,
'Tis a day of vast importance
To the preacher and his wife.
Then the greatest expectation
And the highest hopes abound—
When the Conference year is ended,
And the wheel turns round.

Close to Greenland's icy mountain,
And by India's coral strand,
On the wide and woolly prairies,
And in Matabele Land,
There the patient, ceaseless workers
With heroic souls are found,
With a faith that dares the future,
When the wheel turns round.

There are men with great ambitions,
With a high and holy zeal,
How these souls in life's bright morning
To our sympathies appeal!
They are cheerful, for their praises
Through the Conference halls resound,
And they see delightful visions—
Till the wheel turns round.

Some sincere, old-fashioned workers
(Not so very widely known)
Think the cabinet and bishop
Can revolve the wheel alone,
So they cultivate with ardor
Their own little patch of ground,
Toiling on without a murmur
Till the wheel turns round.

Year by year God's chosen heralds
Work with faithfulness sublime,
Knowing that His hand can straighten
All the tangled threads of Time.
One by one their names are written
On the list of "Glory-crowned"—
Called to God's supreme promotion,
Where no wheel turns round.

Newport, R. I.

BY THE HOME FIRESIDE.

[Florence L. Bain (age 10), in St. Nicholas.]

The night hath come and blotted out the world
With all its strife and struggle, all its pain,
But left one rosy spot where fame is naught,
Where only love is counted loss or gain.

Here all our little childish discontents,
The petty trials of a care-filled day,
Grow dim and distant 'neath the bright good cheer,
And, as the melting shadows, fade away.

A blessing be upon the dear home hearth,
A blessing on the evening fireside!
Its humble games, its simple tales oft told,
Its quiet joys let those who will deride.

The world's gay scenes grow dull, men's loud applause
Froths but a moment and is gone, as foam.
The sweetest hours of life are spent beneath
The calm and holy influence of home.

GAMBLING A GROWING EVIL.

[Cleveland Leader.]

Because the son of a millionaire lost a large sum, estimated all the way from $40,000 to $100,000, in a gambling house in New York, the newspapers of that city are asking why gaming has not been stopped. The police say they are powerless to get evidence, and the officials over them are being criticised because of existing conditions.

Yet it seems strange that it should have required a heavy loss by a millionaire's son to bring the existence of gambling to public attention. The gambling house is not a menace to rich men's sons or professional gamesters, but to poor men and the boys in responsible positions who fall into temptation because the laws are not enforced. In Cleveland and every other large city gambling goes on practically all the time.

Hundreds of men and boys who cannot resist the temptation to play when they find the opportunity are thus led to risk and lose money which they cannot spare, money which their families need often, and in some cases money which they have stolen from their employers. This is going on all the time, yet there is no outcry. It is only when a rich man's son loses a big sum of money he did not earn that a cry of protest goes up. Gambling is a great and growing evil, which is responsible for more misery, perhaps, than any other cause save intemperance.

MANUFACTURING GROWTH OF TEN YEARS.

The meaning of the figures showing the growth of manufactures in the United States in the 10 years between the two last censuses can be best apprehended by recalling the fact that in the same period the population increased less than 22 per cent and the estimated real valuation of all property in the United States increased over 11 per cent. The wealth per capita increased as follows: 1860, $513.37; 1870, $779.53; 1880, $870.25; 1890, $1,036.77; 1900, $1,237.86.

The increase in the last 10 years is the more surprising because 1891 was not a good year, and the years 1893-7 were distinctly bad, with the exception of a part of 1895. In spite of the unfavorable character of agriculture and trade during about half of the decade, the number of manufacturing establishments increased 11.3 per cent, or about twice as much as the population did, which indicates that while the aggregation of many industries into one is going on at one end of the line, there is at the other an enormous multiplication of new establishments. The capital in manufacturing increased 51.3 per cent, which is decidedly more than the aggregate increase of wealth. Manufactures continue to grow faster than other forms of business, but not nearly so fast as in the decade before; the increase in manufacturing capital in the decade before the last was 133.9 per cent.

The value of all products, including custom work and repairing, increased 30.1 per cent, which is less than the increase in establishments or the increase in capital. This is due in part to the great multiplication of small concerns, but not entirely; the statistics for selected industries show an increase in capital of 45.7 per cent and in value of products of 32.9. More capital is invested in proportion to the output than 10 years ago.

The average number of wage earners has increased considerably more than the population, but the increased employment of adult males is but little more than the increase of population; the increase in the number of wage earners is largely due to the increase in the number of women and children, but this is due to the increase of industries in which women and children are employed rather than to the displacing of male labor; the fact that the latter has increased faster than the population proves that there has been no such displacement. In four Southern states where cotton manufacturing has been growing rapidly employment of women increased 125 per cent and that of children 140 per cent. There was an increase in the employment of children nearly as great in Illinois and much greater in Wisconsin, while the increase in Indiana was only 18 per cent, and it was still less in this state. The average wages of men declined very slightly, but this is probably due to changes in industries, and the growth of town employing a lower class of labor in several grades the average wages of men increased a little, and in the large industries, distinguished from small factories and shops, the average wages of adult males increased generally.

ANOTHER CRISIS IN CHINA.

While there is little open discussion of the international aspect of the Chinese situation, the authorities at Washington say a crisis exists almost as acute as any which has occurred since the Boxer revolt. This condition is due to the jealousies which prevail between the powers of Europe. Great Britain and Japan asked their suspicion of Russia's purposes by negotiating a treaty of alliance, and Russia rejoined by issuing, with France, a declaration which shows that she and her ally will stand together in the far east. It is true that all these nations endorse the same principles, but this very fact shows that Great Britain and Japan distrust Russia's professions and that Russia and France distrust the professions of Great Britain and Japan. There is universal suspicion of German policy in China.

The United States is fortunately not a party to any of these combinations, and is pursuing a policy of absolute independence. The world fully understands its purpose, and there is absolutely no suspicion entertained of its intentions by any of the powers interested in the far East. That the European governments and Japan fully trust the United States is shown by the extent of the confidence they have reposed in Secretary Hay. They have given him the most earnest assurance of their purpose not to infringe the principles of the maintenance of the integrity of China and the open door, and some of them have explained how far they are willing to go to insure their observance. The United States is receiving the professions of the powers with gratification, and is making every effort to prevent any action by one power which would be construed as a cause for an affront by another.

ATLANTIC CITY.

Atlantic City is getting a great advertisement out of its recent fire experience. It was already a famous watering place, almost as popular at one season as another. The residents of the great cities of New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore are its chief patrons. Atlantic City is like a vastly magnified Narragansett Pier in its style. The sea and the board walk and the numerous hotels and boarding-houses, all crowding along the ocean front or in the rear streets as close to the water as they can get, leave little room for embellishment in the way of gardens and lawns. There is nothing resembling Newport in the place. The two pleasure cities are about as opposite in character as could be devised. The cottage life of Atlantic City is simply an adjunct of the gay hotel life. The crowds and the sea air and sea sights, and the walk with its fascinating shops, make the great attractions. It is a wholesomely democratic spot, where all classes mingle with mutual enjoyment, and where there is room for excursionists without end, and no one is annoyed by their presence. In reality they are considered one of the interesting features of the place.

MISS STONE.

The report that Miss Stone will begin touring in aid of missions almost directly on landing in this country can be received with several grains of salt. Such a course would be totally at variance with the ordinary conduct of missionaries, and against the wishes, it is believed, of the mission boards, which have never allowed their receipts to be increased by sensational methods. That Miss Stone should endeavor to raise money for the repayment of the sum advanced for her ransom would not be surprising, and going upon the lecture platform it is conceded would be not only the best way of doing this but probably the only way in which the missionary could obtain such a sum. Miss Stone will be here in a few days, and until she arrives and makes her own statement it is well to wait before uttering harsh criticisms on what she may or may not do in a public way. But it can be confidently said that not anything so mild as a church fair, raffle or a grab bag, will be permitted by the mission board with which she is connected, in order to get money for the elevation of the heathen. That work is phenomenal in the dignity with which it is carried on.

SWIFT JUSTICE.

If all detected criminals of the desperate class were sure of receiving as quick and stern justice as has overtaken the Philadelphia murderer of a woman and two children, there would be left no excuse for lynch law. This colored servant had robbed his mistress and, evidently to cover his crime, deliberately killed her and her two children. He had hitherto borne an excellent character, as was shown at the trial by a former employe and by his clergyman and others who had known him, and was trusted accordingly. The peculiarly atrocious circumstances of the murder of the children, and the further robbery of the house before he started on his flight, show plainly that degeneracy without lunacy was at the bottom of the crime. It was committed on the morning of April 1, and by noon of April 4 the murderer was in a condemned cell, where he will be given a few days to wait before he is led to the gallows. The shortness of the trial and the impressive pause before the execution, are both fine testimony to the firm and calm manner in which justice has moved without allowing any diversion from the matter in hand.

THE CUBAN CONTEST.

The struggle over the Cuban reciprocity bill begins in the House today and will undoubtedly be a long and interesting contest. Chairman Payne of the ways and means committee is inclined to the belief that the votes of the Democrats will be necessary to pass the measure. It will be passed, however, and while the House managers would much prefer to have it passed as a party measure by a clear Republican majority, they want it passed and are willing to take it with Democratic votes if they cannot get it in any other way.

The troubles of the bill will not be ended when it passes the House and there will undoubtedly be a determined opposition to it in the Senate, as the beet sugar Republican Senators are working hard to fill its path with obstacles.

AN ADVERTISING BOYCOTT.

The society in England that pledges its members to boycott all goods advertising in a manner that is against good taste or too intruding is doing a good deal more good than the advocates of making a reform by law. Advertisers have for object in view in covering every prominent space that can be reached with hideous posters. If the result of forcing on the people in this obtrusive fashion the thought of their wares was found to prejudice against the wares, there would soon be a change, and we would be freed from the loud, the inartistic and the indecent style of posters, and from advertisements stuck on trees and painted on rocks, and put where they have no business to be.

It costs the New York Suburban Construction Company $1,050,000 and the purchase of a whole block to settle with the owners of the property on Park avenue whose homes were destroyed by the cave-in of March 21. The payment has been made and the contractors are evidently ready to settle for the next disaster.

Commissioner Evans's enemies have been his good friends in emphasizing the honesty and skill of the man in putting down fraud and guarding the interests of the old soldier. His promotion might never have come about if his high qualities had not been made evident by the snarls of the men who would hand in the pension money for their private purses.

W. I. Buchanan of Iowa is now talked about as likely to be appointed minister to Cuba. Are there none but Iowans to be given the good places at the hands of the present administration?

The bill abolishing the war revenue taxes has passed the Senate and House and now needs only the President's signature to become a law; but the war over Cuba is still on in Congress.

Even the spectators are not exempt, it now appears, from danger of injury and death at a great football match.

President Roosevelt is the first Republican President to address the Carolinians in their native state.

It was hardly to be expected that New York should be entirely "dry" under the Raines law.

There will be few mourners for the disappearing war revenue taxes.

Congress is undoubtedly determined to exclude the Chinese.

EDUCATION IN THE PHILIPPINES.

The geography formerly used in the Filipino schools devoted one page out of 200 to the United States and described that country as "one of millionaires, advertisements and eccentricities." Just now one of the eccentricities consists in giving the Filipino children real education. The superintendent of public education in the Philippines, Mr. Fred W. Atkinson, writes in the Outlook:

"The majority of the school children come from ignorant homes, where there are none of the accessories and means of culture. A small but important class of Filipinos, those who possess wealth and culture, while not opposing popular education, favor plans for higher education. On the other hand, the masses, for whom elementary education is intended, are ever in danger of misprizing its benefits. Fine words are heard from local presidents, but with many their deeds prove that their words serve only to conceal their thoughts.

"In spite of these and other difficulties, all the superintendents and the great majority of the American teachers are enthusiastic and optimistic as to the ultimate outcome. A progressive spirit is being aroused in a considerable number of Filipino teachers, who are given, wherever there is an American teacher, daily instruction in English and in methods of teaching; and vacation normal courses are also being conducted. Modern textbooks and other school supplies, including furniture, are being distributed in large quantities. The American teachers are doing something to improve the appearance and hygienic conditions of schools and grounds, and by this means, and by inviting parents to the schools on days of public exercises, are arousing local pride and interest. While there are exceptions, yet local co-operation is forthcoming.

"Almost without exception, the teachers are satisfied, enthusiastic, and intensely interested in their work. They are willing to submit to minor discomforts, and are repaid by the satisfaction of feeling that they, in close contact, are the ones who exercise direct influence in enlightening the Filipino mind, hitherto untrained and groping in darkness. As a friend prominent in Massachusetts educational circles said, 'Teaching in the Philippines is the grandest kind of missionary work.'"

TROUBLES OF A CONGRESSMAN'S WIFE.

In Harper's for April Mr. A. Maurice Low, in his paper on Washington society, tells of the difficulties confronting a newly elected Representative's wife in getting into "society":

"The rural Congressman's wife, ambitious to be in society, and who fondly imagines that election to the House of Representatives carries with it the golden key to unlock all doors, learns her first and bitter lesson," says Mr. Low, "when she discovers that position means something, but persons are every thing. Such a woman comes to Washington full of her own importance, profoundly impressed with the greatness of her husband, fondly believing that the wife of the President, the wives of the members of the cabinet, the wives of Senators, will receive her with open arms: that she will be invited to the dinners of which she has read in her local paper; that she will get her name in the newspapers, and her dresses will be described as was that of the governor's wife at the last charity ball.

"Alas for her disillusionment! She learns that while a Congressman may be a very big man in his district, he is a very small man in Washington until he has established his right to be regarded as above the average. If he has money and tact, he may soon attract attention and cross the golden boundary; or if he has no money, but much ability, he will reach his destination by another route; but if he has neither one nor the other, if he is simply an ordinary member of Congress, a very fair specimen of middle-class, commonplace intelligence, the social recognition for which his wife sighs will never be hers. The wives of Senators from her state will return her call, she may be invited to a tea, even to a dinner at the tag end of the season, but that will be the limit of her insight into society."

CROCUSES.

Appearing at the Very Dawn of Spring, Few Garden Flowers Are More Popular.

[William Whitman Bailey, in Providence Journal.]

Coming as they do at the very dawn of spring, few garden flowers are more popular than crocuses. It is perhaps needless to say that they are none of them native to this country, but with their vigorous alpine constitution they bravely endure our climate. Their real home is in the Mediterranean region and about the Black Sea. They extend natively as far west as Portugal, and eastward in Asia to the Ala Tau mountains. The genus is entirely confined to the Old World. Southwardly they extend into lower Palestine.

Their endurance of rigorous climate is remarkable, and they may almost be classed among "alpines," that, is, mountain-top plants. The lowland species are comparatively few in number, and no single species is found which is not perfectly hardy and capable of enduring such extremes of temperature as it would find, say, here on our Atlantic seaboard. We think of the crocuses always as vernal in habit, but there are a number of autumnal species. Among these, however, must not be included the Colchicum, often known from its appearance, as "autumn crocus." This last is of the lily family, while true crocuses claim relationship with Iris.

As to their history, in Western Europe they appear to have been known at least in the later Middle Ages. Neither Shakespeare nor Spenser makes mention of them, though both speak of saffron, their economic product. We can well regret that they never met the eye of "fancy's child" or underwent his transmuting touch. As early as 1551 they are mentioned by Turner, and we find them recorded in that famous and quaint old tome, the "Herbal" of Gerard, where in 1597 11 species are mentioned.

Parkinson, equally famous, mentions them in 1629; Tournefort, the father of botany in 1719, and the great Swede, Linnaeus, in 1741. The last, who was the founder of modern botany, records 20 species, which he afterward groups as two species and 12 varieties. Baker, Hooker, and, last of all, Maw, have in our time brought the genus into order. The latter has issued a superb illustrated folio, wherein nearly all the species are presented in color. The volume also contains anatomical plates of rare value as well as much general and scientific information.

All crocuses are possessed of a solid bulb or corm, rich in starch, laid up for the initial growth of the plant each year. During the winter this material passes over into sugary soluble compounds, immediately available for growth. In consequence, generally by the middle of February one perceives the green leaves, or even the flowerbud, above ground. The bulb is undicated with light scaly wrappings, upon the removal of which are seen a great number of speck-like, abortive buds, covering the generally white surface. Some one of these rudimentary buds, on one side of the flower of the year, is developed into the shoot of the next season. A new bulb, too, originates above the shriveled old one.

Chemical analysis of the bulb denotes that it is wholesome and nutritious. As a matter of fact, it is largely used throughout Syria, and sold by the pint in the markets of Damascus. The tunics or coverings of the bulb, strange to say, exhibit so much variety of pattern as to be good distinctive features of the species. Sometimes they are thin and at others dense or coriaceous and without any fibrous appearance.

Crocuses have two distinct sets of leaves, which, however, grade into each other. The proper "foliage leaves" are keeled on the back and rolled over on the border, thus producing two lateral channels, or what may even be called tubes, united to the central white stripe. This is considered to be a mechanical contrivance to resist strain. These leaves increase in length as the plant matures, and are in shape very narrow and linear. There is a curious and really beautiful diversity in the cross-section of the leaves, showing how infinitely nature may play upon a type, in nearly all species the leaves die away by June or July, at which time, or even sooner, the capsules in many species will have come above ground. In others these remain permanently subterranean.

Every one knows the shape of the flower, with its long, narrow tube coherent with the ovary, and spreading above into a funnel-shaped cup of six divisions. The color of this varies through shades of deep purple, violet and lavender, to white, making the so-called "cyanic" series. The "xanthic" series, on the contrary, exhibits only hues of orange or yellow. The feathery markings, so characteristic of them all, are in the blue species always purple; in the yellow kinds invariably orange. The yellow sorts, in nature, are the most common. There is no case known of a blue species varying into yellow or orange.

While the stamens have nothing especially remarkable about them, the stigmas, or tips of the pistil, showing the primary number three, vary from entire to the most complicated cuttings and fringes. It is these that form the saffron of commerce, a product of Spain, Persia and China.

UMBRELLA RENTING PLAN.

[New York Tribune.]

The man who "borrows" an umbrella, knowing in his inmost heart that he is not going to bother to return it, may, under the evolutionary inculcation of a Boston idea, soon become as extinct as the great auk. A Boston man has started an umbrella renting scheme that is expected to endear itself to humanity in general as universaly as has the codfish ball or brown beans. When the Boston idea has had its perfect work, the umbrella "borrower" will have become one of the units of a strictly commercial enterprise, and will, therefore, have changed his moral spots.

The Boston idea has taken root in this city, which hereafter is to have the main office, with branches in every American city of 100,000 inhabitants. There will be similar establishments in London, Paris, Berling and other European cities. The Boston idea is expected to reach to every city where it rains. The heathen sitting in perpetual dryness is therefore about the only one who will escape contact with the morally uplifting scheme of always having an umbrella to which one is entitled, and perhaps even the heathen will rent an umbrella to keep off the rays of the burning sun.

The new umbrella renting company has an authorized capital of $5,000,000, and already has 212 umbrella depositories in Boston and its suburbs and about 125 in this city between the Battery and Twenty-third street. These stands are located in or near drug, cigar and shoe stores, news stands and barber shops.

The company sets up a stand with 200 umbrellas and aluminum checks, the latter about the size of a silver half dollar. The checks are good only until the end of the year, no matter when bought. With the checks is a pocket directory of the addresses of the stands. The check costs the patron $1, and entitles the holder to an umbrella at any time he produces it at any stand in this or any other city where the company has stands. When a shower strikes the wayfarer he looks at his directory, rushes to the nearest stand, turns in his check and gets an umbrella. The rain over, he leaves the umbrella at any of the company's stands and gets a check. If the umbrella is ruined while being used by the renter he may turn it in and get either a check or a new umbrella.

The proprietors buy their umbrellas in 20,000 lots at 51 cents apiece. The company makes its money from people keeping the umbrellas after once taking them out and from the loss of checks. The stand owners get about 10 per cent. It is designed to place the stands in or near the public schools, so that parents can be assured of umbrella protection the year around for their children by paying $1. Umbrella stands will be set up adjoining base ball grounds, where checkholders can get an umbrella without expense. Boys with backloads of umbrellas will also be stationed, if the plans are carried out, in theatre lobbies. Theatre men say the scheme will empty the lobbies quickly on rainy nights without expense to the house and much to the comfort of the checkholders. It is expected that a theatre goer without an umbrella, seeing his neighbor get one by handing in his check, will forthwith buy a check, on being informed that his dollar rents an umbrella for a year.

A steam railroad in Boston has established the stands at suburban stations. The manager discovered that on rainy days persons took the trolleys, as they could get off nearer their homes. The steam roads are now running the umbrella renting stands in order to keep their passengers dry who otherwise might prefer the trolley cars. In London the price of the checks will be 50 cents, as that is a more convenient sum in English currency.

BAKING POWDER

-Absolutely Pure-

Working uniformly and perfectly, it makes the bread and cake always light and beautiful, and there is never a waste of good flour, sugar, butter and eggs.

Finer food; saving of money; saving of the health of the family: the last is the greatest economy of all.

The "Royal Baker and Pastry Cook"—over 800 practical and valuable cooking receipts—free to every patron. Send full address.

Some baking powder makers claim their powders are cheaper. They can be cheaper only if made from cheaper materials. To cheapen the cost of an article of food at the expense of its healthfulness, as is done in alum baking powders, is a crime.

NAMED BY MAYOR BOYLE.

New Racing Cutter for the Father Mathew Boat Club Successfully Launched.

The new racing cutter for the Father Mathew Boat Club was launched last evening from Builder L. H. Raymond's shop on Long wharf. The hour selected, 6 o'clock, was evidently a trifle early for some, for though it was intended to have the society's drum corps render music in connection with the launching none was given. Some of the players, by fast work, reached the scene in time; others did not. There was a good-sized gathering of spectators, who were careful to keep clear of the old pier that gave so many a bath on a former occasion. The weather was damp and cold, and the Father Mathew members said it augured well for the success of the boat, for it was regular society weather.

Besides the crowd in the yard and on substantial piers close by, Mrs. Raymond had a number of guests to see the launching, in the boatshop, where the new racer for the Hibernian Boat Club is already set up, affording, with the completed boat, a good opportunity to see the start and finish of the construction of a racing cutter. The two boats gave the spectators an occasion for some good-natured chaff on what would happen when the two got together. When the new boat was launched and the crew got to work in her it became evident what a task the Hibernian oarsmen have ahead of them, for though without practice since last summer the crew forced the new boat along in fast style, and showed in the short spin they took that the crew that shows them their coxswain the coming summer must be a good one.

However, this had nothing to do with the launching, which took place shortly after 6. The crew pushed the boat down the brow, and just as she struck the water Mayor Boyle pulled the ends of the blue ribbon used as a stop on the flag at the bow, and a shower of roses fell, after the Japanese fashion, on the bow of the new craft as the mayor said: "I name thee Silver Jubilee." The crew then paddled out of the slip and were cheered by a crew of the Naval Reserves, who were out to witness the launch. The crew of the new boat returned the compliment, and were in turn greeted by the steam craft in the harbor. A spin was then taken up the harbor, and then down to the boat's quarters. On account of the weather that seems to prevail just now it is not likely that the crew will begin practice for a week or two yet.

The launching was in charge of President J. Joseph M. Martin, and Coxswain Cain had as usual charge of the crew.

The new boat is the same length as the Training Station's racing cutter, 32 feet 3 inches. She is painted like her predecessor, the Aquidneck, blue above the water line, white below and inside, with bright gunwale and thwarts, and has the letters C.J. on the bow. The trimmings are brass and the oars are spoon. Two new American flags tied with blue ribbon adorned the bow and stern, and helped make the craft look handsome as she took her first dip in the salt water.

FISHER—MURPHY.

St. Joseph's Church was the scene of a pretty wedding this morning, when Miss Alice M. Murphy became the wife of Mr. Harry C. Fisher. A nuptial mass was celebrated, Rev. Father Deady, pastor of the church, performing the ceremony, which was witnessed by a large number of friends, many from out of town being present.

The bride wore a gown of white silk, with veil, and carried a bouquet. She was attended by her sister, Miss Julia Murphy, who was dressed in light blue, with hat to match. The best man was Mr. Matthew Reilly of Brockton. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Fisher were immediately driven to the home of the bride's parents on Marlboro street, where a wedding breakfast was served. Later a reception was held in the parlors, which were prettily decorated for the occasion with American Beauty roses. During the reception handsome and useful presents were shown, among them being a silver set from the friends of Mr. Fisher at the Training Station, where he is one of the instructors. Mr. and Mrs. Fisher will leave this evening on their wedding trip, which will include New York and Washington.

BIDS FOR A NEW WATER SYSTEM AT FORT ADAMS.

Bids were opened today at Fort Adams by Post Quartermaster Schumm for installing an entire new water system on the reservation. There were five bidders, as follows: Newport Foundry & Machine Company, $18,727; James J. Lynch & Co., $17,970; P. J. Murphy & Co., $16,240; Darling & Slade, Fall River, $12,430; P. F. Conroy, $12,310.

The work includes the rebuilding of all the water mains except the one, recently put in, from the reservation boundary to the administration building, or approximately four miles of pipe from six to one-inch. The old pipe is to remain in place until the new pipe is connected. The old pipe, laid some years ago, is in many cases too small for present needs, and much of it is worn out. The difference in the bids is due to the differences of opinion as to how much stone will be found in excavating the trenches. The new pipe will provide water inside the garrison to all the buildings on the reservation, to the wharves and for fire protection.

ANOTHER ARCANUM ANNIVERSARY.

Coronet Council, No. 63, Royal Arcanum, has arranged to observe its twenty-fourth anniversary by giving an entertainment in Odd Fellows' hall Friday evening of this week. The program includes singing by the L. B. Walker quartet, instrumental music by Professor Raia, the well known harpist, and an entertainment by Miss Hattie B. Holmes, humorist, to be followed by dancing to the music of the H. K. Howard orchestra. These occasional entertainments by the Arcanum have always proved enjoyable for the members and their friends, and the committee in charge proposes to make this a successful one also.

JAMESTOWN.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

Mr. T. A. Earl, who has the contract to build the addition to the Sea Side cottage at Conanicut Park, has the lumber ready and will begin work as soon as the weather clears. There is to be a 20-foot addition to the dining hall, a new pantry and several sleeping rooms added.

Captain Clarence King began work this morning as pilot on steamer Beaver Tail. Captain Armbrust is now at work on steamer Conanicut, which is being overhauled at the West ferry.

An engineer was in town yesterday, making surveys for the line of pipe which the Jamestown Light & Water Company is to lay to connect the new reservoir with the pumping station. The work of laying the pipe, of which there is about one mile, will be begun as soon as the weather is favorable. The company also proposes to put in a sand filter at the north pumping station this spring.

Mr. Edward E. Luce of North Tisbury is in town.

The annual meeting of the Jamestown & Newport Ferry Company, which was to have been held tomorrow, has been postponed, on account of the death of George W. Swinburne, one of the directors.

FAREWELL TOUR OF PADEREWSKI.

With Sunday night's concert in New York Paderewski concluded his fifth American visit so far as that city is concerned. After playing his last number he went to his private car and about midnight started upon a final round of concert engagements, going first to Utica. Thence his itinerary extends over Ottawa to Louisville, Indianapolis, Rockford, Wichita, Lincoln, Cedar Rapids, Dallas, New Orleans, Birmingham, Ala., and Washington. He will play for the last time in the national capital on April 28 with the orchestra organized lately by Reginald De Koven. The next day he will return to New York and sail for Europe April 30. "By command" he will play at one or more of the functions in connection with the coronation of King Edward.

VISITING SIR KNIGHTS.

Sutton and Godfrey de Bouillon Commanderies Entertained at Masonic Hall.

Washington Commandery, No. 4, Knights Templar, was the host and Sutton Commandery of New Bedford and Godfrey de Bouillon Commandery of Fall River the guests at a complimentary fraternal gathering in Masonic hall last evening, when not only members of the commanderies but ladies were included in the gathering. The guests came by special train, Sutton Commandery bringing 76 couples in charge of Commander E. H. Fisher, and Godfrey de Bouillon Commandery 40 couples in charge of Past Commander D. S. Burdick. Masonic hall was extensively decorated with palms and other potted plants, with clusters of smilax about the walls.

For the Templar whist, which made the first part of the evening's entertainment, rows of black and white flags, known in Templar circles as beauseants, were hung from the ceiling to indicate the position of the players. Following the whist supper was served in the upper hall, and then came dancing, for which the Seventh Artillery orchestra played. The dancing was well conducted, the officials being Eminent Sir Thatcher T. Bowler, floor manager, and his assistants Eminent Sirs Joseph Gibson and Joseph W. Sampson and Sir Knights E. G. Hayward and W. G. Ward.

The committees in charge of the entertainment consisted of Eminent Commander Joseph Gibson and the other officers of the Commandery, Past Commanders H. C. Stevens, Jr., Duncan McLean, J. W. Sampson, W. B. Scott, T. T. Bowler and T. J. Pierce, with Sir Knights W. D. Sayer, William Carry, John W. Gibson, S. B. Gladding, George H. Proud and G. D. Ramsay.

The ladies' committee included Mrs. E. G. Hayward, Mrs. William H. Langley, Mrs. William G. Ward, Mrs. William H. Walcott, Mrs. George H. Bryant, Mrs. John P. Sanborn, Mrs. Thatcher T. Bowler, Mrs. Joseph W. Sampson, Mrs. Henry C. Stevens, Jr., Miss Katharine Stevens, Mrs. Duncan McLean, Mrs. Arthur E. Burland, Mrs. William Carry, Mrs. William B. Scott, Mrs. Sidney B. Gladding, Mrs. William D. Sayer, Mrs. George H. Proud, Mrs. N. Thomas Hodson, Mrs. Sarah Gosling, Miss Mary Slocum and Miss Pierce.

DEATH OF MRS. SUSAN CARR.

Mrs. Susan Carr, one of Newport's oldest citizens, died yesterday at the residence of her son-in-law, Mr. Wilbur Hazard, at North Kingstown. She was the widow of John S. Carr, a pioneer house builder. The body will be brought here for interment. The deceased leaves only one son, Mr. George B. Carr, who for many years was head clerk for the dry goods house of Albert Sherman, on lower Thames street.

A HERO OF PEACE.

In a sketch of Admiral Kempff, who is about to return to this country after long foreign service, Mr. W. E. Griffis asks in the Outlook: "Is the moral grandeur of a fighter, who for his country's sake refuses to fight less than that of him who sinks an enemy's fleet?" Dr. Griffis explains and comments as follows:

A hero and patriot, who stood true to all our noblest traditions in the hour of temptation, when the highest judicial poise and practical wisdom were necessary, is Rear Admiral Louis Kempff, a veteran of 40 years' service. In command of the American naval forces in China on the night of June 16, 1900, he refused, because it was un-American to join the Russian, British, German, French, Italian, Austrian, and Japanese allies in bombarding the Taku forts. Such an act wantonly declared war on China. It was not with the American a question of size or armament, for he had the Newark and the Monocacy, and of the 26 ships in the combined fleet only eight small ships could and did operate. It was upon Kempff's wise and patriotic action that President McKinley and Secretary Hay could and did base their diplomatic action, the wisdom and propriety of which, amply vindicated before the world, have given the United States a leading position in China.

TOWN DRAPED IN MOURNING.

Funeral Train Bearing the Body of Cecil Rhodes Arrives at Buluwayo.

BULUWAYO, Matabeleland, April 8.—The funeral train conveying the body of Cecil Rhodes, which left Cape Town April 3, arrived here today. The town was draped in mourning, and practically the entire population assembled at the railroad station, and accompanied the coffin to the drill hall, where it is now lying in state. Masses of wreaths and other floral emblems are banked about the bier. Tomorrow the coffin will be taken to the Rhodes farm, in the Matoppo district, whence it will be conveyed April 10 to the hill called "The View of the World." The religious service there will be held simultaneously with a memorial service at St. Paul's cathedral, London.

IN SPITE OF OPPOSITION.

Pope to Send Missions to the Coronations in England and Spain.

ROME, April 8.—In spite of the opposition of Cardinal Rampolla, the papal secretary of state, the Pope has decided to send important special missions both to the coronation of King Edward and to the festivities in Spain attendant upon the coronation of King Alfonso. The cardinal's opposition to sending the mission to England was based on the fact that the British Parliament did not change the anti-Catholic formula of the accession oath, and Monsignor Merry Del Val, whom the pontiff designed to be chief of the mission, openly refused to go while the present wording of the oath is maintained. Nevertheless, the mission will be sent, and will probably arrive in London a few hours after the religious ceremony. This will be a repetition of the diplomatic manoeuvre carried out at the coronation of Czar Nicholas II at Moscow.

The question of the advisability of the papal mission to Spain was due to the compromise effected by the queen regent in nominating the Spanish ambassador to the Vatican as her representative at the Pope's jubilee. Under ordinary circumstances a royal prince would have been appointed; but he would have been obliged to also go to the Quirinal, thus creating a situation full of unpleasant possibilities. His Holiness was much displeased at this step and decided to be represented at King Alfonso's majority festivities by the papal nuncio at Madrid.

It is now understood that Spain will send a grandee, with an important retinue, to specially invite the Pope to send a representative to the coronation, who probably will be Cardinal Vannutelli or Cardinal Cretoni, both former nuncios at Madrid.

EIGHTY-FOUR YEARS OLD.

King Christian Celebrates the Anniversary of His Birth.

COPENHAGEN, April 8.—King Christian, who was born April 8, 1818, today celebrated his eighty-fourth birthday, surrounded by his children and grandchildren. The octogenarian monarch, who is well preserved in mind and body, entered keenly into all the festivities. Sixty members of royal families were present at the palace for the occasion and took part in the gayeties, which included a reception at noon by the king, a family dinner and in the evening an entertainment with a concert by the singers of the royal theatre. His Majesty was the recipient of gifts from most of the royal personages of Europe.

Extensive celebrations of the king's birthday took place throughout Denmark, including military parades and feasting.

TO PROVOKE RETALIATION.

Bulgarians Kill and Mutilate a Boy and Three Mussulmans.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 8.—The vali of Adrianople, European Turkey, telegraphs that a band of Bulgarians, with the object of provoking retaliation, recently killed and mutilated three Mussulman peasants and a boy near Kirk-Klisseh, a town 32 miles east-northeast of Adrianople, and then sought refuge in Bulgaria, hoping to be pursued, and anticipating that a conflict would ensue with the frontier guards.

PETERSBURG, April 8.—It is officially announced that the Persian government, with the consent of Russia, is about to issue a new gold loan of 10,000,000 roubles, with interest at 5 per cent, guaranteed by all the Persian customs, with the exception of the customs of the Persian gulf and the ports of Farsistan.

WILL AMOUNT TO 30 PER CENT.

Dividend to be Paid to Employes in King Philip Mills, Fall River.

FALL RIVER, Mass., April 8.—A special wage earners' dividend of five per cent on wages earned by them since September last will be paid to the operatives of the King Philip mills, it is announced today by the mill officials. The dividend will be computed from September to March, and will amount to 30 per cent all told, or an amount considerably in excess of a week's wages. This is the first time in the history of the city proper that such a dividend will have been paid. The Bourne mill is operated on the profit-sharing plan, but it is over the boundary line in Rhode Island. Semi-annual dividends are paid. A short time ago an extra stock dividend was declared from the surplus by the King Philip directors.

ORDERED BY GENERAL SMITH.

Major Waller and Other Witnesses Testify in Rebuttal.

MANILA, April 8.—Major Littleton W. T. Waller of the marine corps, at today's session of the court-martial by which he is being tried on the charge of executing natives of Samar without trial, testified in rebuttal of the evidence given yesterday by General Jacob H. Smith, who commanded the American troops in the island of Samar. The major said General Smith instructed him to kill and burn, said that the more he killed and burned the better pleased he would be, it was no time to take prisoners and that he was to make Samar a howling wilderness. Major Waller asked General Smith to define the age limit for killing, and he replied "everything over 10." The major repeated this order to Captain Porter, saying: "We do not make war in that way, on old men, women and children."

Captain David D. Porter, Captain Hiram I. Bears and Lieutenant Frank Halford, all of the marine corps, testified corroboratively.

The defense requested that a subpoena be served on the adjutant general, demanding the production of the records of the massacre at Balangiga of the detachment of the Ninth infantry, in order to refute the statement of General Smith to the effect that the attack on the troops was made according to the laws of war. The request was granted.

ADVANCE THEIR RATES.

Bonding Companies Alarmed at the Conviction of Liquor Dealers.

NEW YORK, April 8.—Nine companies which make a business of going on the bonds of liquor dealers have notified their customers of an advance in rates. The bonds they sign are guarantees to the state that the liquor laws will not be violated. When a saloonkeeper is twice convicted of excise violation his license is revoked and his bond forfeited. Many of the 122 liquor sellers arrested Sunday already have been convicted once, and if proved guilty again the bonding companies will be compelled to stand the loss.

A sad shock also was dealt out to the liquor dealers in this paramount in the notice "We positively will not issue any bond to hotel proprietors where the premises do not comply in every respect with the liquor tax law."

This is interpreted to mean that all owners of Raines Law hotels must comply with the regulations of the fire and building departments. Not 50 per cent of them do so now. To make all the changes necessary will put hundreds of proprietors to large expense. As the new licenses are to be issued May 1, this will have to be done at once.

CONTROLS ALL PAYING FACTORIES.

American Refining Company Enters the Beet Sugar Industry.

DENVER, Col., April 8.—A News despatch from Fort Collins, the centre of the northern Colorado beet sugar field, says that there is no longer any doubt that the American Sugar Refining Company has entered the beet sugar industry. The despatch says that they now control Penoyer interests, and in fact all the Michigan beet sugar factories that are paying properties. The factory at Lehi, Utah, the despatch continues, has passed into the American Sugar Refining Company's hands. To complete matters, at a meeting of the stockholders of the proposed sugar factory at Fort Collins, to be built by the Penoyer people, a proposition for its absorption by the American Sugar Refining Company, the despatch says, was unanimously accepted.

CHICAGO, April 8.—A convention of the Interstate Telephone Association will be held at the Sherman House April 9, 10 and 11. At Joliet yesterday the Interstate company placed on record a deed of trust for $53,000,000. This amount of securities will be on hand at a meeting to be held tomorrow for the purpose of apportioning the new bonds in exchange for capital stock of the 7,000 exchanges involved in the transaction.

At a banquet to be given representatives of the companies in the association tomorrow night, it is expected, covers will be laid for 1,000 guests.

A NEW USE FOR WEALTH.

(Harper's Weekly.)

While the gentlemen who are exceptionally favored in the matter of wealth come to look about them for the best freedom by which their philanthropies can be made useful to their fellowmen, we commend to them the example of Mr. George Gould, who has offered to bear one third of the entire cost of the improvement of the public highways in the vicinity of Lakewood. Libraries and universities and hospitals and charities are vastly beneficial to our communities, and we trust the great philanthropy involved in such gifts as these will show no abatement in the future. Nevertheless, good roads are essential elements of the success of all of these, and the gentlemen of great wealth who regard themselves solicitous in the light of trustees for the proper administration of the fortunes their wisdom and exclusive have built up cannot find a better field for their expenditures than in making these possible.

A library of magnificent architecture and specially equipped with the stores of learning, set off in a forest, would be of little avail were the paths leading thereto but trails and the highways hub-deep with mud. The conversation of a sublime cathedral would be small talk were the approaches built of mire and of sand, and the beautiful ministrations of the hospitals would go for naught if the avenues leading to their doors, through their unscientific construction, but added to the pain of those brought thither to be cured. Hence we think that Mr. Gould's offer is not only a generous one, but prophetical by much wisdom. A good public road is not only pleasant to look upon and to ride over, and in the manner of its keeping an index of good or bad government, and therefore a useful lesson in civics, but, beyond all else, it is also an auxiliary of such import to all other public beneficiations as to leave them practically worthless without it.

AROUND RHODE ISLAND.

News and Notes of Interest and Importance from All Parts of the State.

The Women's Alliance connected with Westminster Unitarian Church, Providence, held a reception in the church parlors last evening in honor of Dr. Frederick N. Seabury. The following informal invitation was extended to members of the parish: "All Boston has been honoring its Grand Old Man, Edward Everett Hale, celebrating in loving and generous fashion his eightieth birthday. How far and wide throughout our country, especially amongst us Unitarians, have re-echoed all the expressions of honor and affection with which his own good old city has been ringing! But this good old world has room and opportunity for other grand old men and other anniversaries. And we in Providence have ours. We in the Westminster Church have ours. And tomorrow night, with such sincerity of affection and esteem that no one could ask for more, we are going to keep the fiftieth anniversary as an officer of our church of one whom his years will justify us in calling our Grand Old Man; but the readiest congratulation we shall have for him will be that unless we count his years, or consider the heightened and manful spirit he has wrought out of his long experience, we cannot call him old at all! Let us gather tomorrow, a cordial and merry company, to show him what we think of him, and to wish health and life and joy to our trusty comrade, our honored chief, our beloved President, Dr. Frederick N. Seabury." There was a general response to this invitation, and all acquainted with Dr. Seabury were glad of the opportunity to congratulate him upon the conclusion of his half-century of work among them. The pastor of the church, Rev. George William Kent, with Mrs. Kent, received with Dr. Seabury.

An accidental strike was started yesterday among the drivers of the Davis Coal Company in Providence. The men went out the first thing in the morning and were out until noon. The strike was not authorized by the Team Drivers' Union and was due to a mistake on the part of the men. One of their fellow employes was a non-union man, and because of this fact he was not popular with his fellow-workmen who were in the union. They demanded his discharge and then they went out on strike. The union officials were notified, and Business Agent Grace went to the coal yard to straighten the matter out. The Davis Coal Company is one of the concerns that has signed the scale presented in the form of an agreement, and the union has no quarrel with the company. For that reason the unexpected strike was not supported by the officials and matters were adjusted as quickly as possible.

At the urgent request of the members and the pastor of the Congdon Street Baptist Church, of Providence there convened at that church last evening a council composed of the various pastors and delegates of the Baptist faith, to hear the prayers and petitions of that church for a re-admittance and a renewal of the hand of fellowship into the Warren Baptist Association, from which the Congdon Street Baptist Church was recently expelled. The object and aims of the meeting were explained by the chairman of the trustee board, Rev. Dr. King, who gave the relation of his side of the church trouble and the causes which led up to the closing of the edifice against the colored members of the Congdon Street Baptist Church. After further remarks by Rev. Dr. King, Rev. John B. Marsh and the pastor, Rev. John H. Davis, a vote was taken to reconsider actions of the several previous councils and submit the same for favorable consideration for a complete restoration of the full hand of fellowship into the Warren Baptist Association, which convenes in annual session next September.

It is now stated that the announcement made a few weeks ago that the new building for social and religious purposes at Brown University was to be placed on the north end of the rear campus, just east of Hope College, was premature. It was stated by J. C. B. Woods of the executive committee of the corporation yesterday that that committee has not taken definite action in the matter, but will probably decide at its next meeting. The announcement that the structure would be located on the rear campus was simply an inference made on the ground of Mr. Rockefeller's expression of choice of the sites mentioned by the corporation at its special meeting in March. Four sites were named, and this one was most satisfactory to the donor, but his engineer, who came here to look over the grounds, preferred the site of the president's house at the top of College Hill. It is stated that the piers for 16 sections of the new fence to be built around the campus will be completed by Commencement, and at least two sections of the iron fence will be in place at that time.

At the session of the General Assembly just closed the Warwick delegation made an unprecedented record for attendance, a record which was equalled by no other town or city of its size in the state. Not a member representing Warwick in either house was absent from any sitting from the beginning of the session in January until its adjournment last Friday. After the General Assembly adjourned Friday afternoon Senator Treat invited his Warwick colleagues from the house of representatives to a dinner at the Wellington, where the Solons from the state's biggest town spent two hours agreeably in discussing the excellent menu, and incidentally, of course, the work of the legislative session just closed. From the Wellington the party adjourned to the Providence Opera House, where representative J. P. Burlingame, deputy speaker; F. W. Green, C. O. Carpenter and M. J. E. Legris were guests of Senator Treat and saw Chauncey Gleott in "Garrett O'Maugh."

The aggregation of sports who occasionally assemble in Warren when six-round boxing contests are on the board will during the remainder of this year be obliged to seek some other locality where there will be a certainty of their not being disturbed, for yesterday afternoon the town council decided against the "sparring" contests by passing a unanimous vote to grant no more licenses for holding boxing bouts or other fistic contests in the town during the present year. It looks as though the town council had started in for a good government record, for no sooner had the members noted the feeling cropping out against the said matches than they decided to put a stop to them. There was a general feeling that the bouts would lead to something more serious unless license was withheld for such affairs.

Malachi Brown, for years a resident of Woonsocket, in which city, by his earnings as a blacksmith and wheelwright, and by thrift, he accumulated considerable real estate, died yesterday afternoon at the home of his niece, Ella M. Butts, in Providence, at the age of over 70 years. At the time of Mr. Brown's death there was litigation over his property. Last February a deed was filed in Woonsocket, conveying all Mr. Brown's real estate in that city to Ella M. Butts. The children of Malachi Brown objected to this transfer, and filed a petition in the Woonsocket probate court alleging that Mr. Brown was not of sound mind and might come to want. They asked that G. M. Brown or some other suitable person might be appointed guardian of the person and estate of the latter's father. There were hearings and the arguments of counsel. Judge Scott granted the prayer of the petitioners, and appointed G. M. Brown guardian. The counsel for Ella M. Butts appealed from this decision.

Walter H. Small, superintendent of schools of Chelsea, Mass., sent his resignation to the school committee of that city at their regular meeting last night. Mr. Small resigns from his position in Chelsea to accept a similar one in Providence. The resignation was accepted with the regrets of the entire committee. Mr. Small will continue at the head of the Chelsea schools until the close of the regular school season, and will assume his duties in Providence at the beginning of the regular term there. Mr. Small will leave Chelsea with the best of feeling toward him by the several members of the committee, every one of whom have always spoken in the highest terms of Mr. Small's educational abilities and business principles.

Three new cases of small pox were reported in Woonsocket yesterday, all in old centres. The patients are Germain and Ezstad Laferriere of Cass avenue, aged two years and two months, respectively, and Leo Veuhe, aged nine months, of Cumberland street.

The first shad of the season caught in the vicinity of Warren were secured Sunday by Robert Bryden. He secured half a dozen shad in the traps at Palmer's river.

CUBAN TARIFF BILL.

Measure Not Likely to be Amended in the House.

Involves Little Injury to Beet Sugar Interests.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—It is not believed that the Cuban reciprocity measure will be amended in the House. There is some talk about placing amendments upon the bill reducing the tariff on different articles, with a view of defeating the bill on the final vote, but such action is not likely. Very few Republicans care to vote for a tariff revision or a reduction upon any of the various schedules. The threat is made that the bill will be amended by cutting off the differential rate on refined sugar, but the beet sugar manufacturers will not be very anxious for anything of that kind, for a reduction on refined sugar will mean a loss to the beet sugar makers as well as the manufacturers of cane sugar. In fact, the opposition to the Cuban reciprocity plan is nothing like what it was a short time ago, and it is believed that the bill will go through the House and the Senate, too, after it has been thoroughly considered. The fact is the beet sugar men have come to the conclusion that they are not going to be so badly injured as they first supposed by the 20 per cent reduction on Cuban sugar.

Representative Robinson of Indiana, in a speech against the present House methods and in protesting against the manner in which the House allows the Senate to perfect legislation and become the more powerful legislative body, presented some very interesting facts. He showed that 15 of the smaller states, with but 23 out of 357 in the House, had 30, or one-third, of the votes in the Senate. Against this he named nine of the largest states, with one-half of the voting strength of the House, but having only 18 votes in the Senate. These nine large states are New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Ohio, Missouri, Massachusetts, Indiana, Texas and Michigan. The smaller states are Idaho, Delaware, Montana, North Dakota, Utah and Wyoming, with one Representative, and Colorado, Florida, New Hampshire, Oregon, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Vermont and Washington, with two Representatives. He pointed out that these 15 states have a voting population of 1,064,000, which is exceeded by New York with 1,517,000 votes, Pennsylvania 1,173,000 and Illinois 1,100,000. Robinson argued from these figures that the House should retain its power and that to allow the Senate to dominate legislation was giving the minority power over the majority.

From time to time Senators who are presiding make an effort to make those who are debating address the chair before interrupting one another. Senator Blackburn of Kentucky, quite a stickler for parliamentary procedure, was in the chair the other day when the oleo bill was up. Senator Spooner of Wisconsin was speaking and had a colloquy with Senator Money of Mississippi.

"Oleomargarine," said Spooner "is obnoxious to the human stomach."

"Chemical analysis," remarked Money, "shows that it can be digested."

"Well, you may be able to digest it," retorted Spooner.

Here was where Blackburn bethought himself of the rules. "Senators must address the chair," he said.

Spooner turned and faced the chair. "Mr. President, you may be able to digest it."

He had simply addressed the presiding officer and repeated his remark, but the effect was a ripple of laughter at the expense of the Kentucky Senator.

Some of the old timers about Washington were interested the other day in the brief announcement from Portland, Or., to the effect that George H. Williams had been nominated for mayor of that city. Williams came to Washington in 1865 as a Senator. He served six years, during which time he became very close to General Grant. The then President had a high regard for the Oregon man's abilities and at the close of his term in the Senate made him Attorney General. Before the close of Grant's term he nominated Williams for associate justice of the Supreme Court. Williams, although he had been a member of the Senate, failed of confirmation. It is said that Senator Edmunds of Vermont had some reason to advance why Williams should not go on the supreme bench, and it was effective.

Some one was talking about the oleo bill, and Senator Spooner had something to say about the coloring of oleo and butter as well.

"The coloring of butter," said Senator Teller, "is something of recent years."

"I think not," said Spooner.

"Oh, yes," responded Teller. "I know that. When I was a boy in New York state, I worked in a store which furnished all the butter of that county for the New York market. There never was a pound of it colored."

Not for the Record, but to a group of Senators, Scott of West Virginia said: "I know that to be a fact. I clerked in a store before the war, and we took in lots of butter. None of it was colored, and some of it was blamed bad." And the group laughed at Scott's earnestness.

FOR AN AMERICAN NAVAL BASE.

Havana Harbor Found to be Vastly Superior to All Others in the West Indies.

[Washington letter in New York Tribune.]

The superiority of Havana over all other harbors of the West Indies for an American naval base commanding the Gulf of Mexico and theatre of any future operations affecting an isthmian canal, as well as the southern half of the United States, is the most notable conclusion of Admiral Bradford's tour of observation along the coasts of Cuba and Porto Rico, upon which, as the recognized strategical expert of the navy, he was sent at the suggestion of the naval general board last month. His investigations further demonstrated the comparative unimportance of San Juan, Porto Rico, for military purposes, and, it is thought, will emphasize the great importance of the acquisition of the Danish West Indies as an indispensable outpost for the protection of the Atlantic seaboard against a powerful enemy. His official report will, in all likelihood, be withheld from publicity by the Navy Department as involving in the main matters that should not come to the knowledge of European powers, but the reluctance of those about to take control of Cuba to grant to the United States any foothold in Havana harbor may provoke a controversy which will require a full understanding of the situation in both branches of Congress.

Admiral Bradford's itinerary covered Havana, Cienfuegos, Guantanamo, San Juan and Nipe bays in rapid succession, the Dolphin, which carried him, cruising nearly 3,000 miles between these five points in two weeks, only two nights being lost in port in that time. In several harbors the naval vessels engaged in hydrographic surveys met the Dolphin, and their officers furnished the latest information and results of their searches for available deep water coaling stations and their facility of defense. As an instance of the importance of these reports it was conclusively shown that the Isle of Pines, which, under Article VI of the Platt amendment, is omitted from the constitutional boundaries of Cuba, "the title thereto being left to future adjustment by treaty," was wholly unapproachable to vessels of more than 14 feet draught, and was therefore valueless for military purposes.

Similarly the latest survey of San Juan harbor demonstrated the infeasibility of ever accommodating heavy battleships, the entrance channel being shallow, with a hard coral bottom, which cannot be deepened. The possibilities of San Juan as the site of a naval station for first class warships were further minimized by the danger of its entrance in any except the fairest weather and the facility with which a hostile fleet could shell the entire harbor from the northeast and northwest.

The concentration of defenses at Santiago, with its narrow entrance, extremely difficult to enter, suggests the same intent with regard to the eastern part of Cuba, where Guantanamo, though then wholly neglected, has become today, with modern fighting ships of deep draught and coal dependence, the ideal guardian of the Windward passage, the strait frequented by more than half the commerce of the American Mediterranean. Nipe bay, directly north of Santiago, like Guantanamo, is easily accessible to the heaviest warships, provides absolute security for coaling, repairs and other purposes requisite in a naval rendezvous for the greatest of fleets, but in neither of these magnificent harbors would labor be available in time of peace, and for many years their utility is likely to be confined to coaling stations, a form of naval defence which, in their locality, is of paramount importance to the United States under any conceivable international conditions of the future.

What the navy is seeking in the West Indies at the present time, as in fact it has done on the island of Cuba ever since the Monroe doctrine was enunciated, is such a naval repair shop as our own coast offers absolutely no opportunity to create south of the Chesapeake. Charleston, Key West, Pensacola, New Orleans and San Juan fulfil the requisites of the modern unarmored cruisers, gunboats and torpedo craft, as they equalled the demands of the old wooden ships, but as the chief result of all naval investigation of the last four years, confirmed by Admiral Bradford's critical examination, Havana harbor alone meets the greater necessities of today.

THE MORAL EFFECT OF BEAUTY.

[Louis E. Van Norman, in Home and Flowers.]

We think about what we see and hear and what otherwise affects our senses. And we become more or less what we think. Psychological investigators are telling us that children, if taken at the very beginning of life, may have their character molded by hypnotic influence. These wise men purpose making a child think he has certain qualities or is doing certain things. The result will be, they declare, that he will become and will do what his thoughts have prescribed for him, that he will even be influenced in his physical appearance. There is historic support for this. The Greeks, who were the handsomest people of history, were accustomed to surround the expectant mother with their wonderful statues and paintings, so that the young life might be molded to beauty in its first throbbings.

Walking through the streets of the little Bavarian village of Oberammergau, two years ago, several days before the first performance of the great Passion Play, I saw, in the window of a modest art store, photographs of the German peasant Meyer, who for 20 years has personified the Saviour of the world. Photographs taken when he first assumed the role of Christ on the stage show him the typical Bavarian peasant that he was—with all the crudeness, coarseness, untamed humanity in the rough, which characterizes the peasant. A likeness of him in 1900, when he ceased to play and stepped aside for another, seems scarcely that of the same man—it is such a noble, spiritual, almost ideal face. How this change? Representing the acts and the life of the Christ, speaking the words and trying to think the thoughts which animated the divine being, all unconsciously, he had grown like the being he represented. These acts and thoughts, repeated every day, worked their way into the very tissue and fibre of the rough nature and molded it to higher, more spiritual lines. In trying to act, and talk, and think like the Christ, he actually became, not only more like his great pattern in character, but in very facial appearance. "As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he."

Mrs. F. F. Thompson to Present a Chapel to Williams College.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., April 8.—A new chapel, to be made one of the finest buildings of its kind in the country, is to be presented to Williams College by Mrs. F. F. Thompson, as a memorial to her husband, a trustee of the institution, whose gifts in money and buildings during his lifetime aggregated more than $300,000. The gift was announced by President-elect Hopkins of Williams, who met the students of the college at chapel today for the first time. The new head of the college delivered a short address touching upon the policy of his administration. He is to be inaugurated in June. At the close of the address he announced that Mrs. Thompson would present a new chapel. The details of the new building are not completed.

PUNY CHILDREN

Parents Should Know How to Keep Children Well.

Vinol of Great Assistance.

We do not wish to blame any of our friends for that which they cannot help, but sometimes when we see delicate and puny children, we cannot help feeling that their parents are neglectful.

Fathers and mothers of this town please regard what we say, especially if your little ones are delicate. Everything rests with you; you can make them strong and well; you can fortify their systems so that they will not be in a condition to take every prevalent disease. You can lay a foundation stone in their little lives that will give you joy and happiness in years to come when they become strong and hearty men and women. If you will let us tell you about Vinol and follow our advice you will save yourself many sleepless hours and an indefinite amount of worry.

We cannot tell you all we know about Vinol in a few words but we will gladly give you as much of our time as you wish if you will call on us at our store.

We wish to remind you once more that the virtue that Vinol possesses is due to the fact that it contains the active curative principles that have made cod-liver oil famous; there is no grease in it, and we can promise you that its taste is delicious, that it is loved by all children.

We know there is nothing better to assist the stomach of the little ones to properly assimilate the food which they eat. It is the means by which rich red blood is made; strong bone structure is built; hard firm fleshy tissue created; and healthy sound nerves maintained.

The following from Mrs. Jennie Perso, 169 Newman St., Mansfield, O., who says:

"I wish to add a few words of praise in favor of Vinol. My little boy was very much debilitated, so much so in fact that he had to leave school. He really was a mere shadow. At that time I decided to give him Vinol. He has now taken a couple of bottles and is rapidly gaining flesh. I wish to recommend Vinol to all who are in need of a tonic."

Not only for children but for adults do we recommend Vinol without reservation and stand prepared to refund all money to those who do not find absolute satisfaction in its use.

FINANCIAL.

NEW YORK, April 8, Wall Street—The stock market opened irregular, with Amalgamated Copper at 65⅝, Atchison 77½, Baltimore & Ohio 105¾, Brooklyn Transit 65½, Colorado Southern 27⅛, Erie 36¾, Louisville 107⅝, Manhattan 131½, Missouri Pacific 104, Norfolk & Western 56⅝, Ontario & Western 32⅝, Reading 56½, St. Paul 163¾, Sugar 131½, Southern 32⅞, Southern Pacific 65, Union Pacific 101¾, United States Steel 42, United States Steel preferred 94⅞, Western Union 90, Colorado Fuel and Iron 99.

10—Some of the stocks listed on foreign exchanges reflected a demand for London account in its opening dealings. Elsewhere in the list there were sharp reactions. St. Louis & San Francisco rose 1⅛ and Wisconsin Central preferred a large fraction. Amalgamated Copper and Colorado Fuel dipped ½ each. The market was quite active and broad.

11—Supporting orders appeared in Colorado Fuel and Amalgamated and helped to rally the market. These stocks rallied to 1½ and 1⅛ respectively over yesterday's close. There was confident buying of Louisville, which lifted it 1⅝. Prices averaged slightly above last night for the active list and there were some important gains in the specialties. Reading, Northwestern, St. Paul preferred, Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic stocks, New York, Chicago & St. Louis, Wisconsin Central preferred, Westinghouse Electric, Twin City Rapid Transit, Rubber Goods, International Silver, Bike preferred and Ice preferred rose between 1 and 2 points, St Louis & San Francisco and Rubber Goods preferred 2½ each, and Cleveland, Lorain & Wheeling 3½. Metropolitan Railway advanced 2 points, to 187, but the other tractions were not much affected. Anaconda, Lake Erie & Western preferred, Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis, and the Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie stocks declined 1 @ 2.

Noon—Money on call, strong at 5 @ 6 per cent; prime mercantile paper, 4½ @ 5 per cent; sterling exchange, unsettled at $4.87⅝ @ ¾ for demand and $4.85⅛ @ ¼ for 60 days, posted rates, $4.86 and $4.88½; commercial bills, $4.84½ @ 85; bar silver, 53⅜; Mexican dollars, 43; government bonds, steady. Traders took profits in special stocks and bid up others to a higher level, causing a confused tone. Louisville was about the only leading stock that showed consistent strength, and it sold up to 110 on very large dealings. The trans-continental stocks were largely dealt in, but moved only fractionally. Amalgamated Copper reacted a point and Metropolitan Street Railway and Ice preferred lost more than their earlier rise. Meanwhile Sugar, Consolidated Gas, the Denver & Rio Grande stocks, General Electric, Illinois Central, Missouri Pacific, the Chicago Terminal Transfer stocks, Chicago, Union Traction, Keokuk & Des Moines, the United States Rubber stocks, United States Express and New York Dock gained about a point each, and the Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie stocks and Anaconda recovered fully. Sugar lost its gain before noon and American Telephone and Telegraph fell 2 points. The market became quieter. Bonds were firm.

Business Men's Committee on Widening Thames Street Continued—Favor a New Building Law.

At the meeting of the Business Men's Association last evening the committee on the widening of Thames street reported that it had met with insurmountable obstacles in securing its object. After some discussion it was decided to continue the committee. Mr. E. A. Brown asked to be excused from further service, saying he had given all the time he could afford to the matter, and ex-Mayor F. P. Carlettson was appointed to serve in his place.

The following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That in the judgment of this Association additional legislation is desirable in regulation of the erection of buildings in the compact parts of the city of Newport, and of the method of their construction;

That the City Council is hereby respectfully requested to consider the subject of a new building law, and, if thought desirable, to give hearings on the subject, to the end that at the next session of the General Assembly it may be asked to pass such additional legislation as may be found necessary.

ATHLETICS, GYMNASTICS AND BOWLING.

The athletic and gymnastic contests at the Young Men's Christian Association gymnasium last evening were in the running high dive and on the low horizontal bar. In the former George T. Peckham was first, with a record of 5 feet 5 inches, and W. S. Bachelier, Charles Heffernan and F. Traiger were tied for second place, with records of 5 feet 4 inch. Bachelier won in the settlement of the tie. In the bar exercises the records were as follows: First, H. R. Chase, 85½ points; second, G. T. Peckham, 81½ points; third, G. E. Champion, 81 points.

During the evening the first match in the pair tournament at duck pins was played on the bowling alleys, the match in the preliminary round between Dr. H. H. Luther and Daniel T. Boone and W. Burdick and H. G. Riley. The former pair won in a close game, the totals being 466 to 467. Boone made the best single, 88, and Luther the best total, 238. The scores are as follows:

THE EASTERN SWEDISH CONFERENCE.

The Eastern Swedish Conference, of which the Swedish Methodist Episcopal Church of this city is a member, will meet with the First Swedish Church at Quinsigamond, Worcester, Thursday and is expected to continue its sessions until Monday or Tuesday of next week. Bishop Earl Cranston will preside. Rev. Alfred Ostlund, pastor of the Newport church, will leave this afternoon for Providence and Worcester and will remain until the close of the Conference. There will be no service at the church next Sunday morning and no session of the Sunday school, but in the evening the Epworth League will conduct a service, beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

JURORS SUMMONED.

The following have been summoned to appear as jurors for the coming April term of the common pleas division of the supreme court, which will open Monday next:

Grand—Charles Gladding, James Morris, George W. Barlow, William F. Robinson, Abram W. Aldred, George G. Payne.

Petit—John Howard, William Riley, Jr., John F. Reagan, Frederick W. Rhinelander, Robert S. Parker, Thomas Donohue, Robert C. Ebbs, George W. Sullivan, James H. Barney, John S. Martin, Edward W. Higbee, George H. Chase, J. Herman Greene.

Two others whose names were drawn have died and the notices could not be served, and several of those notified are not in physical condition to serve on a jury.

MR. WENDTE ON "POPULAR AMUSEMENTS."

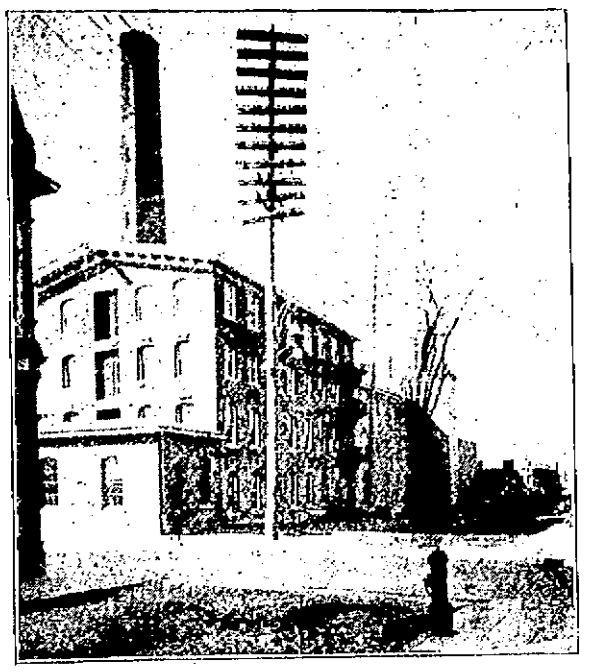

"Popular Amusements and Public Morals" was the topic upon which Rev. Charles W. Wendte addressed the Actors' Church Alliance at the Parker Memorial, Boston, Sunday evening. He said that American society needs not less but more and better amusements. These should be such as are not harmful in themselves or harmful in pursuit. Pigeon shooting, prize fighting and the like should be abandoned, but gymnastic exercises, rowing, billiards, base ball, football and similar games are excellent and when separated from gambling, should be encouraged. Cards, also, said Mr. Wendte, when no money is at stake, are an innocent and happy diversion. Dancing, except at public balls, is a legitimate and beautiful form of amusement.

REV. A. J. COULTAS.
Appointed Presiding Elder of Providence District.

Rev. Andrew J. Coultas, the newly appointed presiding elder of Providence district, is a comparatively young man for that important position. He was graduated from Wesleyan University, at Middletown, Conn., in the class of 1880, and joined the New England Southern Conference the same year, being assigned to the North church, Fall River. In 1882-4 he was pastor at Mystic Bridge, Conn.; 1885-7, Norwich, Sachem street; 1888-91, New London; 1892-96, Fall River, St. Paul's, and in 1897, Providence, Chestnut Street. During that year the old Chestnut Street church, the mother of all the Providence Methodist churches, was consolidated with Trinity church, under the name of Trinity Union, and since then Rev. Mr. Coultas has been pastor of the united body. In 1900 he was elected one of the four delegates from this Conference to the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Rev. Florus L. Streeter, the new pastor of the Thames Street church in this city, joined the Conference in 1892, and has been pastor successively at Falmouth, Mass., two years; Norwich, Sachem Street, one year; Providence, Edgewood and Washington Park, five years, and at Phenix two years. He succeeded in the latter church Rev. C. H. Smith, whom he now again succeeds, upon the appointment of the latter to Newport two years ago. Rev. Mr. Streeter is not a stranger in this vicinity, having preached in both the Methodist churches within a few months past, and at a recent meeting of the Methodist Social Union, at Middletown, giving the address of the meeting.

Rev. John Thompson, appointed to the church in Portsmouth, joined the Conference in 1881, being assigned to Long Plain, Mass. His succeeding pastorates have been as follows: 1882, West Duxbury; 1883-5, Pawtucket, Thomson church; 1886, Dighton; 1887, Wareham; 1888-89, Jewett City and Hopeville; 1890-3, Tolland, Lee Church and Wesley Chapel; 1894, North Reholoth and Chartley; 1895-96, Marshfield and West Duxbury; 1897-1901, Westport Point, Mass.

Rev. Dr. E. C. Bass, the retiring presiding elder, well known in Newport, was left without an appointment, taking a supernumerary relation, because of the feeble health of Mrs. Bass.

The change in the pastorate at Thames Street was until within a few days past entirely unexpected, neither pastor nor people desiring or anticipating the transfer of Rev. Mr. Smith. In the adjustment of the appointments, resulting from the assignment of Rev. Mr. Coultas as presiding elder, Rev. J. P. Cooper, formerly of Middletown, was transferred from First Church, Taunton, to Trinity Union, Providence, and to fill the vacancy thus created Rev. Mr. Smith was selected. Though not desiring to remove, Mr. Smith consented to the change, in view of the fact that so desirable an appointment as that of Rev. Mr. Streeter for his successor could be secured, and the church, under the circumstances, reluctantly gave its approval to the transfer.

AMERICA VS. ENGLAND IN TRAVELING ACCOMMODATIONS.

In speaking of railway travel abroad, as compared to the luxury to be found in the United States, William Howard Francis says in the April Lippincott:

"The English arrangement of seats is such that one-half the occupants must always ride backward, and the available space for one's feet is usually so limited as to render necessary a nice mutual adjustment of the pedal extremities of all concerned. Most extraordinary of all are the racks for hand-baggage—small arrangements with netting bottoms—surmounted by signs whereon it is written that disaster will follow an attempt to deposit anything other than 'light articles' therein. The adjective 'light' has so plastic a significance that the traveler hesitates about trusting so much as a shawl or a hat to the insidious meshes of the net. The weighty impedimenta, such as grip-sacks and dress-suit cases, which every traveler must perforce carry, become dreadful night-mares to be huddled on the floor or carried on the knees, to the discomfort of one's neighbors or the misery of one's self.

"A yet more serious deficiency is in the frequent lack of the most ordinary conveniences. Many of the carriages, especially those below first-class, have no toilet appliances, and unless one is so fortunate as to get a carriage with a side corridor (a partial adoption of the American idea), one is likely to have much needless discomfort added to the unavoidable fatigues of travel. It is true that certain English railway companies, notably the London and Northwestern, are doing much in the way of improvement through the adoption of a carriage modelled in certain particulars upon the American plan. The compartment division is partly retained, but a central aisle running the entire length renders communication possible and permits of a toilet-room accessible to all. The carriage is as yet among the luxuries, however, and is not general."

TO PROTECT THE FLAG.

Full Text of the Law Passed by the General Assembly to Prevent Its Desecration.

The following is the full text of the law to prevent the desecration of the United States flag, passed by the General Assembly last week:

An act to prevent and punish the desecration of the flag of the United States of America.

It is enacted by the General Assembly as follows:

Section 1. Any person who in any manner, for exhibition or display, shall place or cause to be placed any word, figure, mark, picture, design, drawing or advertisement of any nature upon any flag, standard, color or ensign of the United States of America, or shall expose or cause to be exposed to public view any such flag, standard, color or ensign upon which shall be printed, painted or otherwise placed, or to which shall be attached, appended, affixed or annexed any word, figure, mark, picture, design or drawing or any advertisement of any nature, or who shall expose to public view, manufacture, sell, expose for sale; give away or have in possession for sale or to give away or for use for any purpose any article or substance being an article of merchandise or a receptacle of merchandise upon which shall have been printed, painted, attached or otherwise, placed a representation of any such flag, standard, color or ensign to advertise, call attention to, mark or distinguish the article or substance on which so placed, or who shall publicly mutilate, deface, defile or defy, trample upon, or cast contempt, either by words or act, upon any such flag, standard, color or ensign, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $100 or by imprisonment for not more than 30 days, or both, in the discretion of the court.

Sec. 2. The words flag, standard, color or ensign, as used in this act, shall include any flag, standard, color or ensign or any picture or representation of either thereof made of any substance or represented on any substance and of any size, evidently purporting to be either of said flag, standard, color or ensign of the United States of America or a picture or a representation of either thereof upon which shall be shown the colors, the Stars and the Stripes in any number of either thereof or by which the person seeing the same without deliberation may believe the same to represent the flag, color, standard or ensign of the United States of America.

Sec. 3. Sec. 4. This act shall take effect January 1, 1904.

AN EXCELLENT MUSICAL COMEDY.

Rarely are theatre-goers offered such a novel treat as is in store for them when the musical comedy, "Morocco Bound," will be presented here by the A. H. Chamberlyn organization, which comes almost direct from the Columbia Theatre, Boston, where it has had a remarkably successful engagement of three months. This is one of the musical productions of the past decade ranking with such meritorious attractions as "San Toy" and "The Geisha." The company is an unusually large one, embracing 50 people, and scenically is one of splendor. The music is of the bright, catchy sort and the comedy of a kind calculated to excite the risibles of the most staid. The cast is one not often seen outside of the larger cities and the chorus is reported to be the most winsome ever connected with a similar organization. Magnificent costumes are a feature, while in electrical effects the production is said to exceed all expectations.

The scenes are laid in London on the banks of the Thames, and at the palace of the Vizier of "Morocco," a small country on the borders of the Mediterranean. A ludicrous plot concerning a wealthy retired English costermonger in search of a title of some kind, which he is unable to secure in his own country, and for which he appeals to the dusky ruler of Morocco, furnishes unbounded amusement. The principal fun makers are Dan Collyer, William Herman West, Phillip Branson, E. Lovatt Fraser, Harry Braham, Bertram Godfrey and Templar Saxe. Misses May Baker, Florence Holbrook, Tillie Salinger, Vasti Hellis, Igna Pelle and Hattie Moore are the prominent women of the company.

THE TIVERTON POLICE COMMISSION.

The Tiverton police commission has organized with Captain Nathaniel Church as chairman and J. A. Wilcox as clerk. Captain Gillan was promoted to the position of chief of the police force and Officer William Cummings was transferred from the bridge district to the north end, and Officer Frank Manchester, who is also town sergeant, from the north end to the bridge district.

The Fall River Globe, speaking of the condition of affairs in Tiverton Sunday, says: "The newly-appointed license commissioners of Tiverton have taken charge of affairs. Yesterday there was a large crowd of visitors in the north end of the town but no disturbances were reported. The men from this city came home early, and therefore the car travel between 6 and 8 o'clock last evening was not as heavy as a week ago, when 300 passengers were carried in three trips of one car. Last evening the same car in the same time registered only 100."

On the other hand, the Fall River News seemed to think there was a good deal of drunkenness in the town Sunday.
